'Bad' Weather Scheduled For Local Area

Travelers' Warning Posted; Freezing Rain, Sleet Due

The season's low temperature reading of three degrees recorded Christmas Eve was repeated Saturday when the mercury again slid to the near-zero mark.

Warmer temperatures forecast for today and Tuesday will result in freezing rain, according to the weather observer, with travelers' warnings in effect for this portion of the state.

Both city and county road crews have been alerted and are well prepared, materially, to handle roadways in the event of freezing rain.

In Circleville service men who have worked almost steadily since the Sunday prior to Christmas, are currently at work removing snow from curb sides.

ROAD crews in the county also continue their clearing efforts. A county garage spokesman described the rural roads as currently in "rather good condition" and "passable."

The weather potpourri continues with light snow expected tonight in the Roundtown area, light rain or snow on Tuesday and possible snow on Wednesday when the thermometer is expected to again start a downward trend.

In Roundtown, 3.2 inches of snow remain on the ground for winter sports enthusiasts. Predicted rain and colder temperatures should renew surfaces for all aspiring Peggy Flemings and Bobby Hulls.

Demos Set Fund Dinner

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic party, still saddled with a massive presidential campaign debt, hopes to ease the financial distress with a Feb. 5 fund raising affair in Miami Beach.

Party chairman Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma hopes the affair, to be linked with at least 16 regional Democratic dinners by closed circuit television, will clear more than $1 million.

But that still will leave the party far from settlement of its $7.5 million presidential campaign debt.

"The financial situation of the Democratic National Committee will, of course, remain quite serious for the near future," Harris acknowledged in a year end report to the party.

He said the Miami Beach dinner and gala will be the party's principal 1970 fund raising effort.

Three of the Democrats' star performers, Hubert H. Humphrey, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, are to appear on the TV hookup from Miami Beach.

Snow Buries Large Part Of Vermont

By STEVEN A. COHEN
Associated Press Writer

A storm that dumped nearly 50 inches of snow on parts of Vermont left the state an official disaster area today, while the rest of New England cleaned up after a weekend of heavy snow, rain, gale winds and high tides.

The fourth storm in two weeks hovered over New England for nearly four days after striking Thursday.

Gov. Deane Davis declared Vermont a disaster area Sunday so the National Guard could be called out to help rescue stranded motorists and families isolated by the storm.

The Weather Bureau reported 48 inches of new snow fell in the small southern Vermont community of East Wallingford. Waitsfield had 4 inches and Marshfield 39.

Drifts mounted to 20 and 30 feet on the McCullough Turnpike. Vermont and the rest of New England had widespread power and telephone failures.

Heavy rainfall that followed the snow in most of New England brought minor flooding to parts of Massachusetts and New Hampshire. More severe flooding occurred in Maine.

Four inches of rain followed several inches of snow in the Greater Boston area, closing several main roads.

Parts of western Massachusetts received up to two feet of snow before the rains began, and snowmobiles were pressed into service for emergencies.

Twelve deaths in the six-state region were attributed to the storm.

Another storm has produced a variety of adverse winter weather in the Southwest.

Snow or ice conditions extended over Oklahoma across the northern half of Texas to the southern Rockies early today. Heavy snow and ice storm warnings were in effect in Oklahoma and heavy snow warnings were out for portions of Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.

3 Cincinnatians Killed In Crash

CULLMAN, Ala. (AP) — Three members of a Cincinnati, Ohio, family were killed near here Sunday after their car struck a bridge abutment and plunged over a steep slope along I-65.

State police identified the victims as Thomas W. Warren, 35; his mother, Frances Warren, 59, and his niece, Lisa Marvin, 9. The girl's parents live in Prattville, Ala., but she had been staying with the Warrens in Cincinnati.

Heavy fog played havoc with air travel in Missouri and southern Illinois much of Sunday night and made driving extremely hazardous.

Occasional rain or drizzle dampened the north Pacific Coast today. Light snow and flurries were reported from the northern plains to the upper Great Lakes.

Coal Miners Push Signing Of Safety Bill

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Twelve hundred coal miners at four nearby mines were on strike today to support demands that President Nixon sign a federal coal mine health and safety bill.

The miners predicted they would be joined by others and that more mines would be shut down later today.

Pickets appeared at the Carbon Fuel Co. mine and the Imperial Collieries mine in Kanawha County and at the Central Appalachian Coal Co. mine and the Semet Solvay mine in adjacent Fayette County.

The Black Lung Association had called Saturday for a general strike beginning at midnight Sunday and lasting until Nixon signed the bill.

The strike call was not endorsed by the United Mine Workers union.

Sara Koznoski, a leader of a group of miners' widows, issued a statement Saturday saying that if the bill is not signed into law "thousands of coal miners will be denied compensation for pneumoconiosis (black lung disease) and untold numbers will die in single accidents or by scores."

Mrs. Koznoski's husband was one of 73 miners killed in a mine disaster at Monongah, W. Va., in November 1968.

Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W. Va., said Sunday that Mrs. Koznoski and seven other widows would go to Washington today to urge Nixon to sign the bill.

Conservationist Gives Warning May Replace War As Worry

BOSTON (AP) — Concern over the condition of the environment may soon replace the Vietnam war and civil rights as something to worry about, says Dr. Leo Marx.

But Marx, an Amherst College professor of English and American institutions, cautioned that publicity and public concern about the environment should not be confused with real changes to make it better.

In an address to the American Association for the Advancement of Science Sunday, Marx criticized some aspects of the conservation movement, saying it has been associated with the privileged and has had "overtones of philanthropy."

"To many Americans," he said, "a conservationist is a fellow with enough time and money to enjoy outdoor life, camping, bird watching or mountain climbing."

"To others, conservationist means some sort of crank reformer, hippie, nature freak, or just a rich man eager to protect the sanctity of his rustic retreat."

Until recently, Marx said, "the problems of conservation seldom have been made to seem pertinent to the welfare of the poor, the nonwhite population, or... most Americans who live in cities."

The conservation movement has been characterized by "a certain innocence, above all an excessive trust in rational persuasion as a political method," he said.

The destruction of natural resources and wildlife has resulted, he said, from the profit making activities of individuals and corporations.

Gas Bills Just Slightly Unusual

STOURPORT-ON-SEVERN, England (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. David Fortey have been living in their new home for eight months and so far have received eight gas bills, three demands to read their gas meter, two threats of legal action from the gas company, a warning that their gas will be disconnected, a visit from a gas engineer and hints of a court warrant over the affair.

"There's only one problem," said Fortey. "We don't have gas in our house. We cook on electricity and we don't even have a gas meter."

There seems to be some confusion," said a spokesman for the gas board.

In the Mekong Delta 128 miles southwest of Saigon, Viet Cong troops opened fire with rocket grenades on a U.S. Navy patrol boat on a canal a mile from the Cambodian border. Headquarters said one American was killed and eight wounded. The boat crew returned the fire, but enemy losses were not known.

The U.S. Command reported 24 enemy rocket and mortar attacks between 8 a.m. Sunday and 8 a.m. today. Three Americans and 16 South Vietnamese were reported wounded.

The allied commands said all three fights north or east of Saigon were triggered by enemy troops.

Field reports said Viet Cong troops attacked Suoi Ca, a hamlet 22 miles east of Saigon, just after midnight with machine guns and rifles. Nine of the 60 government defenders were reported killed, two were wounded and one was missing. Two civilians also were reported killed. Enemy losses were unknown.

Near the Cambodian border 86 miles northeast of Saigon, U.S. bombers, helicopter gun-ships and artillery killed 46 North Vietnamese troops without a single American casualty, U.S. headquarters said. The fighting was triggered when enemy gunners fired on American reconnaissance helicopters.

Later, some 35 American B52 bombers pounded the region.

The compromise was born at two meetings between a White House legal trouble shooter, Charles Colson, and James H. Rademacher, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers—called by Colson after the White House was flooded with more than three million letters in response to pay protest advertisements run by Rademacher's union in newspapers across the country.

It would tie a projected 11.1 per cent pay hike for postal employees with a postal authority granting Rademacher's three demands: having binding arbitration in lieu of the right to strike; putting four congressmen on the 13-member executive council, and keeping civil service status for federal employees.

Nixon Indicates He Will Sign Tax Reform Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, back at the White House after a brief trip to his nearby mountain retreat, has indicated he will sign the tax reform bill before he leaves for a two-week winter vacation in California.

The measure falls $2.5 billion below the revenue he wanted. The administration now is hunting ways to trim spending to make up the shortfall.

Financial and foreign policy matters were reviewed by the President Sunday in discussions with aides John D. Ehrlichman and Henry A. Kissinger. Nixon will send his 1971 federal budget proposals to Congress in about a month.

Nixon, due to leave Tuesday for his home at San Clemente, Calif., went by helicopter to snowy Camp David Saturday night. His wife and their daughter Tricia accompanied him on the windy flight to the retreat in the Catoctin Mountains about 60 miles northwest of Washington.

Ambassador's Limousine Is Attacked

MANILA (AP) — Anti-American demonstrators attacked a limousine carrying U.S. Ambassador Henry Byroade and his wife Sunday night, but riot police kept them away when Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and his wife arrived a short while later for a reception at the U.S. Embassy.

Several hundred riot police drove the crowd of more than 100 young leftists across the road from the embassy compound. The demonstrators chanted "Yankee Go Home," and marched up and down as the Agnews' car drove into the compound with some 20 Secret Service agents running alongside.

Boeing and shouting, the demonstrators surrounded Byroade's car and banged on it with their signs and fists. Several demonstrators jumped in front of the car, bringing it to a halt. More than 200 helmeted police forced the demonstrators back and at least two tear gas grenades were thrown. The car drove into the embassy compound.

The demonstrators handed out a leaflet saying they were members of the Free Philippine Youth Union and the Bertrand Russell Peace Foundation, which is one of the more vocal opponents of U.S. policy in Vietnam.

Agnew arrived in Manila during the afternoon and told well-wishers at the airport that the United States and the Philippines "stand together on the threshold of a new decade which holds challenge as well as bring promise for both of our nations."

Snow Buries Large Part Of Vermont

A storm that dumped nearly 50 inches of snow on parts of Vermont left the state an official disaster area today, while the rest of New England cleaned up after a weekend of heavy snow, rain, gale winds and high tides.

The fourth storm in two weeks hovered over New England for nearly four days after striking Thursday.

Gov. Deane Davis declared Vermont a disaster area Sunday so the National Guard could be called out to help rescue stranded motorists and families isolated by the storm.

The Weather Bureau reported 48 inches of new snow fell in the small southern Vermont community of East Wallingford. Waitsfield had 4 inches and Marshfield 39.

Drifts mounted to 20 and 30 feet on the McCullough Turnpike, Vermont and the rest of New England had widespread power and telephone failures.

Heavy rainfall that followed the snow in most of New England brought minor flooding to parts of Massachusetts and New Hampshire. More severe flooding occurred in Maine.

Several inches of rain followed several inches of snow in the Greater Boston area, closing several main roads.

Parts of western Massachusetts received up to two feet of snow before the rains began, and snowmobiles were pressed into service for emergencies.

Twelve deaths in the six-state region were attributed to the storm.

Another storm has produced a variety of adverse winter weather in the Southwest.

Snow or ice conditions extended from Oklahoma across the northern half of Texas to the southern Rockies early today. Heavy snow and ice storm warnings were in effect in Oklahoma and heavy snow warnings were out for portions of Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.

Rain or thundershowers covered much of the lower Mississippi Valley as well as the southeastern part of Texas, while cold rain or drizzle extended as far north as the Ohio River.

Coal Miners Push Signing Of Safety Bill
CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Twelve hundred coal miners at four nearby mines were on strike today to support demands that President Nixon sign a federal coal mine health and safety bill.

The miners predicted they would be joined by others and that more mines would be shut down later today.

Pickets appeared at the Carbon Fuel Co. mine and the Imperial Coal Co. mine in Kanawha County and at the Central Appalachian Coal Co. mine and the Semet Solvay mine in adjacent Fayette County.

The Black Lung Association had called Saturday for a general strike beginning at midnight Sunday and lasting until Nixon signed the bill.

The strike call was not endorsed by the United Mine Workers union.

Sara Koznoski, a leader of a group of miners' widows, issued a statement Saturday saying that if the bill is not signed into law "thousands of coal miners will be denied compensation for pneumoconiosis (black lung disease) and untold numbers will die in single accidents or by scores."

Mrs. Koznoski's husband was one of 78 miners killed in a mine disaster at Mennington, W. Va., in November 1968.

Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W. Va., said Sunday that Mrs. Koznoski and seven other widows would go to Washington today to urge Nixon to sign the bill.

Conservationist Gives Warning

May Replace War As Worry

BOSTON (AP) — Concern over the condition of the environment may soon replace the Vietnam war and civil rights as something to worry about, says Dr. Leo Marx.

But Marx, an Amherst College professor of English and American institutions, cautioned that publicity and public concern about the environment should not be confused with real changes to make it better.

In an address to the American Association for the Advancement of Science Sunday, Marx criticized some aspects of the conservation movement, saying it has been associated with the privileged and has had "overtones of philanthropy."

"To many Americans," he said, "a conservationist is a fellow with enough time and money to enjoy outdoor life, camping, bird watching or mountain climbing."

"To others, conservationist means some sort of crank reformer, hippie, nature freak, or just a rich man eager to protect the sanctity of his rustic retreat."

Until recently, Marx said, "the problems of conservation seldom have been made to seem pertinent to the welfare of the poor, the nonwhite population, or... most Americans who live in cities."

The conservation movement has been characterized by "a certain innocence, above all an excessive trust in rational persuasion as a political method," he said.

The destruction of natural resources and wildlife has resulted, he said, from the profit making activities of individuals and corporations.

Gas Bills Just Slightly Unusual

STOURPORT-ON-SEVERN, England (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. David Fortey have been living in their new home for eight months and so far have received eight gas bills, three demands to read their gas meter, two threats of legal action from the gas company, a warning that their gas will be disconnected, a visit from a gas engineer and hints of a court warrant over the affair.

"There's only one problem," said Fortey. "We don't have gas in our house. We cook on electricity and we don't even have a gas meter."

"There seems to be some confusion," said a spokesman for the gas board.

Deadlock On Postal Plan Broken; Maneuvers Start

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House-backed compromise appears to have broken the deadlock over congressional approval of President Nixon's postal corporation plan—but the maneuvering is not over.

All but one of the major postal unions opposition are noncommittal on the compromise as now written—and one says Nixon is trying to buy them off too cheap.

"This (corporation) is what they want," says David Silvergleid, president of the National Postal Union. "They know they've got to pay a little to get it."

And opponents on the House Post Office Committee say the compromise bill's removal of congressional control over postal rates—which they say are bound to spiral under the plan to make the mails self-supporting by 1978—will jeopardize their political necks.

But interviews with postal union leaders, congressmen and White House and committee aides indicate agreement is so close that creation of a semi-independent postal corporation—now to be called a postal authority—is a good possibility next year.

Nixon and Postmaster Gen. Winton M. Douglas have given top priority to substituting management of the mails by 535 congressmen and a postmaster general with an independent corporate management they say is needed to stop waste, modernize the system and stop deficits that ran to $1.2 billion last year.

The compromise was born at two meetings between a White House legal trouble shooter, Charles Colson, and James H. Rademacher, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers—called by Colson after the White House was flooded with more than three million letters in response to pay protest advertisements run by Rademacher's union in newspapers across the country.

It would tie a projected 11.1 per cent pay hike for postal employees with a postal authority granting Rademacher's three demands: having binding arbitration in lieu of the right to strike; putting four congressmen on the 13-member executive council, and keeping civil service status for federal employees.

Nixon Indicates He Will Sign Tax Reform Bill
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, back at the White House after a brief trip to his nearby mountain retreat, has indicated he will sign the tax reform bill before he leaves for a two-week winter vacation in California.

The measure falls $2.5 billion below the revenue he wanted. The administration now is hunting ways to trim spending to make up the shortfall.

Financial and foreign policy matters were reviewed by the President Sunday in discussions with aides John D. Ehrlichman and Henry A. Kissinger. Nixon will send his 1971 federal budget proposals to Congress in about a month.

Nixon, due to leave Tuesday for his home at San Clemente, Calif., went by helicopter to snowy Camp David Saturday night. His wife and their daughter Tricia accompanied him on the windy flight to the retreat in the Catoctin Mountains about 60 miles northwest of Washington.

JUDGES for the Home Decorating Contest, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, will have a monumental task this year... So many homes have been decorated so beautifully... Circleville's residential areas go "all out" during the Christmas season for decorating, it's a shame the same spirit and pride doesn't exist for decorating the downtown area.

In Municipal Court, business was going as usual with groans from the clerks about the cases that accumulated during their extra day of vacation.

North Vietnamese Reject Presents

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The North Vietnamese Embassy here rejected today American industrialist H. Ross Perot's offer to send Christmas dinners to North Vietnamese children orphaned by the war.

A communique said Perot had backed the Nixon administration and had given $1 million last November for a propaganda campaign calling Americans to support President Nixon.

Perot is flying in his chartered plane to Europe, hoping gifts for U.S. war prisoners in North Vietnam can be sent through Moscow. Hanoi refused to receive the gifts.

Child Dies Of Burns

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A second child has died as a result of a house fire here the day after Christmas. Kathy Jean Hatem, 7, died Saturday in Children's Hospital of burns. Her death came at about the same time funeral services were being held for her cousin, Jennifer Couden, 6, who died in the blaze.

Holiday Traffic Toll Falls Well Below Official Prediction

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bad weather throughout the nation may have aided in keeping the Christmas traffic death toll far below the 800 to 900 deaths predicted, the National Safety Council says.

Council President Howard Pyle said the low total of 581 deaths for the four-day holiday period which ended at midnight Sunday may have been due to the poor traveling conditions which kept many off the roads.

Although the number of deaths was low, the price paid in terms of grief and tragedy was high.

A head-on collision near White River S. D. killed seven persons including a family of four in one car and two brothers in the other.

Four members of a Jackson Miss. family are dead as the result of a fiery two-car collision in Waltham County Miss.

A Ripon Wis. woman and her three children were killed when the car driven by her husband swerved off a road and skidded sideways into the rear of a parked truck near Davenport Ill.

A car drag racing down a Salt Lake City street struck and killed Mrs. Sarah Ann Legroan 73. She was carrying a sack full of Christmas presents which were scattered along the street.

While Ohio's traffic death toll over the long Christmas weekend was high reaching 25 over the 102-hour period it was well below the 42 deaths predicted by highway safety officials.

The Ohio Highway Patrol attributed the relatively low toll to snow-covered roads and highways and said bad weather kept many who had planned trips at home.

The patrol said seven of the deaths were on state highways while 13 were on city streets and the five others on county roads. The dead included four pedestrians. About half of the victims died in the Cleveland area.

None of the dead, according to the patrol was using seat belts.

Traffic accidents claimed two lives Wednesday evening after the holiday period began at 6 p.m. Two others died Christmas Day and four were killed Friday.

Billy Graham Tells Teens Young Generation Is Good

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham says he often attends love-ins and rock festivals because he can get a true picture of what's going on among today's young people.

"I sometimes put on a false moustache and a beard," he told newsmen Sunday after addressing some 2,500 young people at the Miami-Hollywood Rock Festival.

Graham, invited to speak by the festival promoter, said he found the experience refreshing. "This is the way Jesus did it," he said. "He went to where the people were."

Graham spoke for about 20 minutes Sunday and got a mixed reaction.

The boys and girls sat on blankets in a muddy, straw-strewn field. Some listened intently as Graham urged them to "drop out of your present lives and turn on to the power of God." A few cheered and shouted obscenities, some talked quietly among themselves and a good number slept, exhausted by events the previous night when the last musical group quit at 4 a.m.

"I came prepared to be shouted down," Graham told newsmen, "but I was amazed at the polite way I was treated."

Graham received scattered applause when he mounted the makeshift stage. He got a larger hand when he finished speaking.

"I think this is a generation of tremendous young people," he said. "Many of them are deeply religious... you can find it in some of the music if you listen hard enough."

He said he would continue to attend large gatherings of youths to spread the Gospel.

"I'll be happy to come to any rock festival where I'm invited," he said. "I feel I scattered some seeds here today."

Hope Fades For 20 Men From Vessel

Had Abandoned Ammunition Ship Following Blast

HONOLULU (AP) — Mounting waves and rising winds dimmed rescue hope today for 20 crewmen who abandoned the munitions ship Badger State before an explosion tore a hole in her left side some 1,500 miles northwest of Hawaii.

"I doubt that at this point anyone is going to speculate whether they'll be found alive or not," a Navy spokesman said.

But the search was continuing, he added.

The 39-man crew left the bomb-laden vessel, bound for Vietnam, Friday after the skipper, Charles Wilson, radioed that the cargo had broken loose in the holds. The blast came 70 minutes later. Cause of the explosion was not known.

Fourteen men, including the skipper, were rescued by the Greek freighter Khian Star Friday and were en route to Yokohama, Japan. The Khian Star ended its search for other survivors Saturday because of a fuel shortage.

Five bodies were sighted near an overturned lifeboat Saturday by the merchant ship Flying Dragon. Only one body was recovered, the Navy said.

At darkness Sunday the captain of the Flying Dragon reported seas had increased to 30 feet and winds to 35 knots. No new sighting of survivors or bodies was reported.

Air Force and Coast Guard rescue planes took turns flying out of Midway Island to the 120-mile-square search area some 600 miles to the northeast.

The mysterious explosion tore a huge hole in the starboard side of the Badger State but the 450-foot vessel remained afloat Sunday, the Navy said.

Smoke still poured from its aft section with its cargo of bombs and rockets, equivalent to 2,000 tons of TNT, still aboard.

The cargo was bound for delivery to the Air Force at Da Nang, South Vietnam, after being loaded at the Bangor ammunition depot near Seattle, Wash., the Navy said.

The Navy tug Abnaki was sent to attempt salvage of the Badger State. The Navy said the Flying Dragon will remain in the area until the tug arrives Wednesday.

Thieves Prepare For New Year's Celebration

Someone did their New Year's Eve shopping early when they broke into the A & P store Sunday morning and made off with a supply of beer, wine and cigarettes.

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Don Thompson has the burglary under investigation.

City Patrolman John Bost, discovered the broken front glass door about 2 a.m. and notified the Sheriff's Department.

The value of the stolen property has not been determined.

TODAY In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Hillary Sandoval Jr., administrator of the Small Business Administration, reported today his agency approved more than 5,300 loans—totaling $128 million—to minorities this year.

That is nearly double the 1968 volume—2,739 loans, for a total $4 million. He said total lending under the SBA's four major programs reached 14,000 loans amounting to $679 million this year, up from the 1968 figures of 13,592 loans totaling $675.7 million.

This year's totals were computed by combining actual loans approved during the first 11 months and "conservative estimates of December activity," he said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — David Hilliard, Black Panther chief of staff who is accused of advocating the assassination of President Nixon, insists he did not threaten the President's life.

Hilliard said Sunday that his statement "We should kill President Nixon" was political rhetoric, not meant literally, and was taken out of the context of his Nov. 15 peace rally speech in San Francisco.

"We can call it a metaphor. It is the language of the ghetto. This is the way we relate," Hilliard said during an interview on the CBS television-radio program "Face the Nation."

Hilliard was asked: "Do you feel that Richard Nixon is standing in the way of your freedom?"

He replied: "I think anybody that picks up guns against the oppressed people or anybody that endorses programs that maintain the oppressive structure as it is, is in the way of our freedom."

"Is that Richard Nixon?" he was asked.

"Richard Nixon is the chief spokesman of the American people and, if the man is not responsible for the people in government, like the FBI agencies or the local police," Hilliard responded, "then he should stand up and let the American people know that he does not endorse the kind of campaigns that have been waged against the Black Panther party."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright says a man identifying himself as a sergeant in charge of an Air Force news film team in South Vietnam reports the movie makers have been advised to concentrate on the Vietnamese doing various jobs.

"We are filming so much of the Vietnamese and what they are doing that it certainly would appear from looking at our stories that the Vietnamese have taken the major share of the war as their own," the man added in a letter released Sunday by Fulbright.

Fulbright, a Democrat from Arkansas, did not disclose the man's name but said the letter is in response to the senator's assertion that the Defense Department is waging a propaganda program with tax money.

Two former servicemen wrote Fulbright that they agree with the senator's contention, while a writer-researcher for a department film crew in Vietnam rejected Fulbright's views.

Sato Wins Bigger Majority In Japanese Election Battle

TOKYO (AP) — With his parliamentary majority increased in Saturday's election, Prime Minister Eisaku Sato says his pro-American foreign policy has been approved by the voters and it is time to concentrate on domestic issues.

Sato's Liberal-Democratic party won 288 of the 486 seats in the House of Representatives, a gain of 16. Then 12 independents threw in with the government, giving Sato a majority of 114.

The 68-year-old prime minister told a news conference the victory was a vote of confidence in his securing the return of Okinawa and his party's intention to continue the U.S.-Japan security treaty, which comes up for review in 1970.

The task now, Sato said, is to concentrate on prices, taxes and student unrest.

The biggest gain in the election was made by Komeito, the Clean Government party, which is the political arm of the militant Buddhist sect Soka Gakkai. It won 47 seats, a gain of 22. The Communists also registered a considerable increase, from four seats to 14.

The Socialist party was still the second largest, with 90 seats. But this was 44 less than in the previous house.

The Democratic Socialist party held on to its 31 seats, and independents won 16 seats, 13 more than previously.

An unofficial tally showed only 68.5 per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls, the lowest percentage since 1947. The Liberal-Democrats got 47.6 per cent of the popular vote, the Socialists 21.4 per cent, Komeito 10.9, Democratic-Socialists 7.7, Communists 6.8 and independents 5.2.

Bus Checked After Bomb Threat Received

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — State patrolmen stopped a bus carrying 34 passengers on Interstate 80S south of Ravenna Sunday evening after receiving a report that a bomb was aboard the vehicle.

The patrol said the bus was stopped near Ohio 44 shortly after 6:30 p.m. and moved to an empty service station, where a search of the vehicle and luggage of the passengers failed to turn up any explosives.

The search delayed the bus about one hour and 20 minutes and the patrol said about half the 34 passengers made other arrangements to complete their trip from Akron to Youngstown.

The bus was an Ohio Valley vehicle under lease to Greyhound Bus Lines. The patrol said the original anonymous bomb report was given to Greyhound officials in Akron, who called police.

Agnew said that since this is his first trip to Asia, "I am not in a position to make pronouncements on this part of the world." But he praised the Philippines for its development of representative government, free speech, free press and public education.

The vice president arrived amid a revival of the furor over American aid to Philippine troops in Vietnam.

Furnace Blamed In Trailer Fire

A furnace which apparently flooded and exploded was the cause of a house trailer fire at the Plainview Trailer Court on the Circleville-Lockbourne Road early Sunday afternoon.

Airman Sgt. Don R. Babb told Deputy Bill Dountz that he was asleep in the trailer and awoke to see smoke around the furnace. He ran outside to turn off the fuel oil and when he returned to the trailer it was engulfed in flames.

The Harrison Twp. Fire Department extinguished the blaze, but the trailer and its contents were a total loss.

Don't Make Fun Of Engelbert

As Gerry Dorsey, his first stage name, Engelbert Humperdinck sweated it out in show biz for a long time and got nowhere. Taking the famous German composer's tag did the trick.

By MEL HEIMER

Engelbert Humperdinck?

Newsman learn at an early age never to make fun of anyone's name, but when I buttonholed this tall sideburned young man to ask him about his new ABC-TV series, I made the fatal mistake of saying look, now, I just can't address you as Engelbert, so how about Arnold Dorsey, your real name?

You could have cut the atmosphere with the icebreaker Manhattan. "You've started on the wrong foot," Mr. Dorsey said frostily. "I am Engelbert Humperdinck. My mother and father called me that and my wife calls me that. Or, Engel for short."

He meant it, too.

A bit later, when the air had thawed about five per cent, Mr. Dorsey allowed that he didn't like to think about his old, or real name, or even the name "Gerry Dorsey" that he once used — because they hadn't brought him good luck. "You know how you tend to associate bad or good things in your career with your identity at the time," he said. "Well, all the good things have happened since I became Engelbert Humperdinck, so I prefer that name."

He was not putting me on. Far as I could figure out.

Well, the good things have happened: he's right, there Mr. Dorsey was tagged Engelbert H. late in 1966 and early in January, 1967, his first Palladium appearance came about, along with the issuance of his first big record, "Release Me." Zoom. Now Mr. Dorsey has a 50,000-pound house in England's "millionaire belt" of Surrey, he has two Rolls Royces, one Mercedes, one wife and three children and he is partnered with Tom Jones in a company called "Mam," that went public not long ago and whose stock rose from 13 shillings thruppence to 52 and 6.

Not to overlook by any means the fact that when he went to South Africa on a tour, he was met by 16,000 persons and a whole tribe of Zulus in full battle dress.

TV gave him an hour-long special early in December and then, after a successful engagement at New York's Royal Box cafe in the Americana, he went to London where he's starting to tape the new series. At departure time, he said the format had not been decided on "but it will maintain the standard of the hour special," so if you liked or didn't like that one, you know what's coming.

Mr. Dorsey has been around a comparatively long while; as far back as 1959 he did 42 weeks on "Song Parade," a British television program and before that he was a factory worker and a saxophonist with oh, almost no success. He had come to England from Madras, India, having lived his first 11 years there because his father worked in India as an engineer.

He not only appears on TV; he watches it. "I don't get that much chance, of course, he said, wrapping his orange terry cloth robe around him, "but I like to put my feet up at home and turn on the telly and watch just anything. What I would like to do ultimately are films — no, not the stage — but I realize I need some work speech-wise. Musically, I like everything. Has anyone influenced me? No. I have my own style."

The bizarre name, of course, was taken from the German composer who wrote "Hansel and Gretel" and other famous items and some of the Teutons are so much in arms about Mr. Dorsey using the tag that he is permitted to use only "Engelbert," without the "Humperdinck," on his records released in that country. "Although," he added, "the disc jockeys there often use the full name."

I asked him if drunks, the bane of all nightclub performers, bothered him in cafes and he said no, not at all. I could believe it. The drunks wouldn't dare. Mr. Humperdinck, nee Dorsey, comes on strong.

Billy Graham Tells Teens Young Generation Is Good

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham says he often attends love-ins and rock festivals incognito so he can get a true picture of what's going on among today's young people.

"I sometimes put on a false moustache and a beard," he told newsmen Sunday after addressing some 2,500 young people at the Miami-Hollywood Rock Festival.

Graham, invited to speak by the festival promoter, said he found the experience refreshing. "This is the way Jesus did it," he said. "He went to where the people were."

Graham spoke for about 20 minutes Sunday and got a mixed reaction.

The boys and girls sat on blankets in a muddy, straw-strewn field. Some listened intently as Graham urged them to "drop out of your present lives and turn on to the power of God." A few jeered and shouted obscenities, some talked quietly among themselves and a good number slept, exhausted by the events the previous night when the last musical group quit at 4 a.m.

"I came prepared to be shouted down," Graham told newsmen, "but I was amazed at the polite way I was treated."

Graham received scattered applause when he mounted the makeshift stage. He got a larger hand when he finished speaking.

"I think this is a generation of tremendous young people," he said. "Many of them are deeply religious... you can find it in some of the music if you listen hard enough."

He said he would continue to attend large gatherings of youths to spread the Gospel.

"I'll be happy to come to any rock festival where I'm invited," he said. "I feel I scattered some seeds here today."

Hope Fades For 20 Men From Vessel

Had Abandoned Ammunition Ship Following Blast

HONOLULU (AP) — Mounting waves and rising winds dimmed rescue hope today for 20 crewmen who abandoned the munitions ship Badger State before an explosion tore a hole in her left side some 1,500 miles northwest of Hawaii.

"I doubt that at this point anyone is going to speculate whether they'll be found alive or not," a Navy spokesman said. But the search was continuing, he added.

The 39-man crew left the bomb-laden vessel, bound for Vietnam, Friday after the skipper, Charles Wilson, radioed that the cargo had broken loose in the holds. The blast came 70 minutes later. Cause of the explosion was not known.

Fourteen men, including the skipper, were rescued by the Greek freighter Klian Star Friday and were en route to Yokohama, Japan. The Klian Star ended its search for other survivors Saturday because of a fuel shortage.

Five bodies were sighted near an overturned lifeboat Saturday by the merchant ship Flying Dragon. Only one body was recovered, the Navy said.

At darkness Sunday the captain of the Flying Dragon reported seas had increased to 30 feet and winds to 35 knots. No new sighting of survivors or bodies was reported.

Air Force and Coast Guard rescue planes took turns flying out of Midway Island to the 120-mile-square search area some 600 miles to the northeast.

The mysterious explosion tore a huge hole in the starboard side of the Badger State but the 450-foot vessel remained afloat Sunday, the Navy said.

Smoke still poured from its aft section with its cargo of bombs and rockets, equivalent to 2,000 tons of TNT, still aboard.

The cargo was bound for delivery to the Air Force at Da Nang, South Vietnam, after being loaded at the Bangor ammunition depot near Seattle, Wash., the Navy said.

The Navy tug Abnaki was sent to attempt salvage of the Badger State. The Navy said the Flying Dragon will remain in the area until the tug arrives Wednesday.

Thieves Prepare For New Year's Celebration

Someone did their New Year's Eve shopping early when they broke into the A & P store Sunday morning and made off with a supply of beer, wine and cigarettes.

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Don Thompson has the burglary under investigation.

City Patrolman, John Bost, discovered the broken front glass door about 2 a.m. and notified the Sheriff's Department.

The value of the stolen property has not been determined.

TODAY In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Hillary Sandoval Jr., administrator of the Small Business Administration, reported today his agency approved more than 5,300 loans—totaling $128 million—to minorities this year.

That is nearly double the 1968 volume—2,739 loans, for a total $54 million. He said total lending under the SBA's four major programs reached 14,000 loans amounting to $679 million this year, up from the 1968 figures of 13,592 loans totaling $675.7 million.

This year's totals were computed by combining actual loans approved during the first 11 months and "conservative estimates of December activity," he said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — David Hilliard, Black Panther chief of staff who is accused of advocating the assassination of President Nixon, insists he did not threaten the President's life.

Hilliard said Sunday that his statement "We should kill President Nixon" was political rhetoric, not meant literally, and was taken out of the context of his Nov. 15 peace rally speech in San Francisco.

"We can call it a metaphor. It is the language of the ghetto. This is the way we relate," Hilliard said during an interview on the CBS television-radio program "Face the Nation."

Hilliard was asked: "Do you feel that Richard Nixon is standing in the way of your freedom?"

He replied: "I think anybody that picks up guns against the oppressed people or anybody that endorses programs that maintain the oppressive structure as it is, is in the way of our freedom."

"Is that Richard Nixon?" he was asked.

"Richard Nixon is the chief spokesman of the American people and, if the man is not responsible for the people in government, like the FBI agencies or the local police," Hilliard responded, "then he should stand up and let the American people know that he does not endorse the kind of campaigns that have been waged against the Black Panther party."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright says a man identifying himself as a sergeant in charge of an Air Force news film team in South Vietnam reports the movie makers have been advised to concentrate on the Vietnamese doing various jobs.

"We are filming so much of the Vietnamese and what they are doing that it certainly would appear from looking at our stories that the Vietnamese have taken the major share of the war as their own," the man added in a letter released Sunday by Fulbright.

Fulbright, a Democrat from Arkansas, did not disclose the man's name but said the letter is in response to the senator's assertion that the Defense Department is waging a propaganda program with tax money.

Two former servicemen wrote Fulbright that they agree with the senator's contention, while a writer-researcher for a department film crew in Vietnam rejected Fulbright's views.

Capital Quote

"It is our belief that if a concerted effort is initiated now, it should be possible to make dental decay almost completely preventable within the next decade," Dr. Seymour J. Kreshover, director of the Public Health Service's National Institute of Dental Research.

Taxicabs were first introduced in the United States in 1907.

Sato Wins Bigger Majority In Japanese Election Battle

TOKYO (AP) — With his parliamentary majority increased in Saturday's election, Prime Minister Eisaku Sato says his pro-American foreign policy has been approved by the voters and it is time to concentrate on domestic issues.

Sato's Liberal-Democratic party won 288 of the 486 seats in the House of Representatives, a gain of 16. Then 12 independents threw in with the government, giving Sato a majority of 114.

The 68-year-old prime minister told a news conference the victory was a vote of confidence in his securing the return of Okinawa and his party's intention to continue the U.S.-Japan security treaty, which comes up for review in 1970.

The task now, Sato said, is to concentrate on prices, taxes and student unrest.

The biggest gain in the election was made by Komeito, the Clean Government party, which is the political arm of the militant Buddhist sect Soka Gakkai. It won 47 seats, a gain of 22. The Communists also registered a considerable increase, from four seats to 14.

The Socialist party was still the second largest, with 90 seats. But this was 44 less than in the previous house.

The Democratic Socialist party held on to its 31 seats, and independents won 16 seats, 13 more than previously.

An unofficial tally showed only 68.5 per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls, the lowest percentage since 1947. The Liberal-Democrats got 47.6 per cent of the popular vote, the Socialists 21.4 per cent, Komeito 10.9, Democratic-Socialists 7.7, Communists 6.8 and independents 5.2.

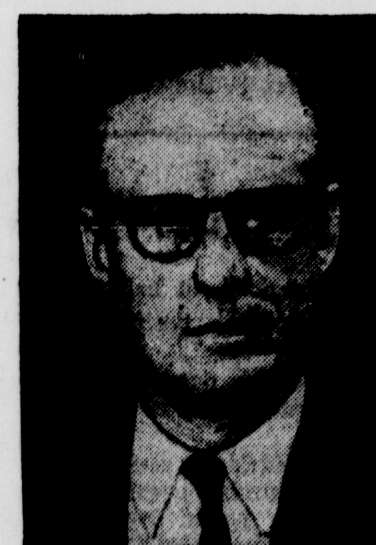

Bus Checked After Bomb Threat Received

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — State patrolmen stopped a bus carrying 34 passengers on Interstate 80S south of Ravenna Sunday evening after receiving a report that a bomb was aboard the vehicle.

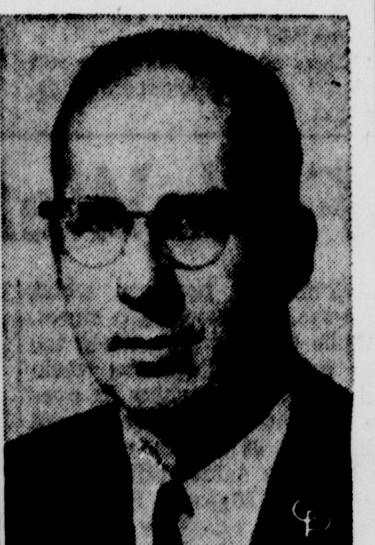

The patrol said the bus was stopped near Ohio 44 shortly after 6:30 p.m. and moved to an empty service station, where a search of the vehicle and luggage of the passengers failed to turn up any explosives.

The search delayed the bus about one hour and 20 minutes and the patrol said about half the 34 passengers made other arrangements to complete their trip from Akron to Youngstown.

The bus was an Ohio Valley vehicle under lease to Greyhound Bus Lines. The patrol said the original anonymous bomb report was given to Greyhound officials in Akron, who called police.

A POLITICAL TUSSELE in New York seems resolved with the resignation of Democrat Robert M. Morgenthau (left) as U.S. attorney for southern New York so President Nixon's appointee, Republican Whitney N. Seymour Jr. (right) can step in. Morgenthau resigned as of Jan. 15. He was supported for continuing in office by New York's two Republican U.S. senators and by New York City's GOP mayor.

from President Nixon and a prediction that the 1970s "will see us reach a new mutual friendship which does honor to two great sovereign nations."

He stressed partnership between the two longtime friends in brief remarks at Manila International Airport. The Philippines is the first of 10 Asian countries Agnew is scheduled to visit during the next three weeks.

Along with his wife, Judy, Agnew's party of 40 included Apollo 10 astronaut Eugene A. Cernan, who will present President Ferdinand Marcos with pieces of moon rock and pictures of the Philippines taken from space.

Agnew said that since this is his first trip to Asia, "I am not in a position to make pronouncements on this part of the world." But he praised the Philippines for its development of representative government, free speech, free press and public education.

The vice president arrived amid a revival of the furor over American aid to Philippine troops in Vietnam.

Furnace Blamed In Trailer Fire

A furnace which apparently flooded and exploded was the cause of a house trailer fire at the Plainview Trailer Court on the Circleville-Lockbourne Road early Sunday afternoon.

Airman Sgt. Don R. Babb told Deputy Bill Dountz that he was asleep in the trailer and awoke to see smoke around the furnace. He ran outside to turn off the fuel oil and when he returned to the trailer it was engulfed in flames.

The Harrison Twp. Fire Department extinguished the blaze, but the trailer and its contents were a total loss.

Don't Make Fun Of Engelbert

As Gerry Dorsey, his first stage name, Engelbert Humperdinck sweated it out in show biz for a long time and got nowhere. Taking the famous German composer's tag did the trick.

By MEL HEIMER

Engelbert Humperdinck?

Newsman learn at an early age never to make fun of anyone's name, but when I buttonholed this tall sideburned young man to ask him about his new ABC-TV series, I made the fatal mistake of saying look, now, I just can't address you as Engelbert, so how about Arnold Dorsey, your real name?

You could have cut the atmosphere with the icebreaker Manhattan. "You've started on the wrong foot," Mr. Dorsey said frostily. "I am Engelbert Humperdinck. My mother and father called me that and my wife calls me that. Or, Engel for short."

He meant it, too.

A bit later, when the air had thawed about five per cent, Mr. Dorsey allowed that he didn't like to think about his old, or real name, or even the name "Gerry Dorsey" that he once used — because they hadn't brought him good luck. "You know how you tend to associate bad or good things in your career with your identity at the time," he said. "Well, all the good things have happened since I became Engelbert Humperdinck, so I prefer that name."

He was not putting me on. Far as I could figure out.

Well, the good things have happened; he's right, there Mr. Dorsey was tagged Engelbert H. late in 1966 and early in January, 1967, his first Palladium appearance came about, along with the issuance of his first big record, "Release Me." Zoom. Now Mr. Dorsey has a 50,000-pound house in England's "millionaire belt" of Surrey, he has two Rolls Royces, one Mercedes, one wife and three children and he is partnered with Tom Jones in a company called "Mam," that went public not long ago and whose stock rose from 13 shillings thruppence to 52 and 6.

Not to overlook by any means the fact that when he went to South Africa on a tour, he was met by 16,000 persons and a whole tribe of Zulus in full battle dress.

TV gave him an hour-long special early in December and then, after a successful engagement at New York's Royal Box cafe in the Americana, he went to London where he's starting to tape the new series. At departure time, he said the format had not been decided on "but it will maintain the standard of the hour special," so if you liked or didn't like that one, you know what's coming.

Mr. Dorsey has been around a comparatively long while; as far back as 1959 he did 42 weeks on "Song Parade," a British television program and before that he was a factory worker and a saxophonist with oh, almost no success. He had come to England from Madras, India, having lived his first 11 years there because his father worked in India as an engineer.

He not only appears on TV; he watches it. "I don't get that much chance, of course, he said, wrapping his orange terry cloth robe around him, "but I like to put my feet up at home and turn on the telly and watch just anything. What I would like to do ultimately are films — no, not the stage — but I realize I need some work speech-wise. Musically, I like everything. Has anyone influenced me? No. I have my own style."

The bizarre name, of course, was taken from the German composer who wrote "Hansel and Gretel" and other famous items and some of the Teutons are so much in arms about Mr. Dorsey using the tag that he is permitted to use only "Engelbert," without the "Humperdinck," on his records released in that country. "Although," he added, "the disc jockeys there often use the full name."

I asked him if drunks, the bane of all nightclub performers, bothered him in cafes and he said no, not at all. I could believe it. The drunks wouldn't dare. Mr. Humperdinck, nee Dorsey, comes on strong.

Retreat From Libya

Although the United States has one more year to go on the lease it signed with the government of Libya, it is in the process of withdrawing the 10,000 airmen and dependents stationed on the giant Wheelus Air Base. It is doing so because the revolutionary government which took over in Libya three months ago demands the evacuation.

The leftist rulers have served notice on the U.S. to abandon Wheelus "immediately and unconditionally." U.S. Ambassador Joseph Palmer is quoted as saying, "I am here to declare my government's approval of the Libyan government's request for evacuation."

Wheelus not only is the largest U.S.

base outside the United States, but an important overseas training ground for airmen. Libyan officials claim Israeli pilots have been trained there. The U.S. has been paying Libya $10 million a year under an agreement initiated in 1954.

Aside from the fact the U.S. apparently is now abandoning one of its most useful overseas bases, there is the additional danger such a base could mount if it were to be turned over to hostile hands. If abandonment is the order of the day, at least none of the facilities paid for by U.S. funds should be left operative when the last American departs.

Bovine Choppers

Veterinarians in the Argentine these days are boning up on dentistry because increasing numbers of cattle are wearing false teeth. The idea is not to bolster the cow's morale, but to make it live longer. Argentine cattle are susceptible to tooth disease because of the fibrous and sandy range grass.

It is not unusual for cattle to die at half their normal lifespan because they lost their teeth and could not eat properly. Since beef not only is Argentina's principal diet, but also its major export, such a waste is costly.

The situation has been greatly improved by a Buenos Aires veterinarian who invented false teeth for cattle. Ranches which have fitted their cattle with the devices (at a cost of less than $30 each) report all are contented out on the range.

Piney Refrain

Bizarre though it may seem, the U.S. Forest Service is working on a project officials hope will produce a smog-resistant strain of trees. Giving impetus to the study was an aerial survey of forests made by the service in November which showed 161,000 acres of conifers in various stages of decay in Southern California alone.

Best estimates are that one million California trees are dead or dying from polluted air. Similar reports are being received by the forest service from other parts of the nation, but the intensity of smog in some parts of California has made that state a prime subject for foresters groping for a way to cope with the problem.

Underway now are laboratory tests to discover which conifers are most susceptible to pollution, with the intention of replacing them with hardier strains.

Man is not the only victim of his environmental carelessness.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1934, Japan renounced the Washington Treaty limiting the naval armaments of the United States, Britain and Japan.

On this date:
In 1170, Archbishop Thomas Becket was murdered at the altar in the Cathedral at Canterbury, England.

In 1808, the 17th U.S. president, Andrew Johnson, was born in Raleigh, N.C.

In 1848, there was excitement at the White House as the first gas lights were installed.

In 1940, a massive German air raid against London left many sections of the city in flames.

In 1962, President John F. Kennedy went to Miami, Fla., to greet Cuban prisoners just released by the Castro government in exchange for American ransom.

Ten years ago: Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev admitted that there had been serious failures and mismanagement in Russian agriculture.

Five years ago: Rebels in the Congo were reported to have killed 25 to 30 white hostages.

One year ago: The Soviet Union and the United States condemned Israel for a retaliatory raid against the Beirut, Lebanon, airport.

Try and Stop Me

JERRY MORRIS tells of the hiker who was startled to come upon a farmer holding a pig up to a tree while the pig munched apples. When he picked up a second pig to repeat the process, the hiker inquired sarcastically, "Doesn't it strike you as a considerable waste of time to feed your pigs that way?" The farmer threw him a contemptuous look, and countered, "What's time to a pig?"

While researching for his newest best-seller, "The Seven Minutes," Irving Wallace uncovered several interesting facts concerning hassles of yesterday over censorship and pornography. Did you know, for instance, that "Fanny Hill," sold from under the counter for generations, contains not a single "dirty" four-letter word? On the other hand, Mark Twain, discussing his "1601" with a librarian, confessed, "If there's one decent word findable in this story, it's because I overlooked it!"

Mrs. Deutsch beseeched her husband to get rid of their cat, whom she had detested for years, so as her birthday gift, he enticed the cat into a basket and drove off with it into the distant hills.

When he returned hours later she asked eagerly, "Did you lose the cat?"

"My beloved," sighed her husband, "if I hadn't followed that cat, I'd never have found the way back home!"

The Monday Club chorus presented a musical program featuring the works of Schumann and Schubert, including "Hark! Hark! The Lark," "Linden Tree" and "The Gypsies." Members of the chorus were: Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. Evan Reichelderfer, Miss Helen Marion and Mrs. James Moffitt with accompanist, Miss Abbe Mills Clark.

Eight businesses in Amanda were robbed with less than $20 total stolen. A garage owned by Herbert Young took the greatest loss with $9.50 taken. The thieves even stole 35 cents in pennies from the C. J. Nolte meat market.

Miller-Jones Co. advertised Rubaloshes, full fashion galoshes of all rubber in beige with tan trim or metal with darker trim. They sold for $1.89 for the snap-closed and $2.48 with a zipper.

Mrs. Ward Robinson, 135 S. Pickaway St., won a prize in the National Idea Contest of the National Food Preservation Council for an essay on "Why Fifty Degrees is the Danger Point."

A pound of bacon could be purchased for 25 cents at the local A&P store. Butter was available for 39 cents a pound and flour 23 cents for a five pound bag.

Circleville citizens received some success in their battle against higher rate charges by the Citizens Telephone Co. when evidence was submitted to the state utilities commission which showed that holding companies with headquarters in Kansas City and elsewhere were manipulating finances of the Circleville concern along with other telephone companies.

While trying to dodge a manhole, in the center of the street, a Columbus man collided with a tree in front of the residence of T. J. Morris, N. Court St., damaging the tree and the auto.

Local youths were warned against the dangers of "hooking on" as the weather provided snow for sleds. A popular game was to grab a sled and hitch yourself to a passing auto. Members of the high school news staff sought a street to be blocked off to provide coasting facilities for the youngsters and more safety.

Billy Ireland of a Columbus newspaper complimented Circleville on its holiday decorations, saying they were the most unique of any he had seen in central Ohio.

Charles Mitchell lost $25 and narrowly escaped concussion of the brain when he was struck down in an alley on W. Main St. by an unknown assailant. Mitchell was returning home after shopping with his wife.

In response to the efforts of many citizens, W. Mound St. between Court and Western Ave. was set aside for sledding. This action came just in time for a five inch snowfall, welcomed eagerly by local children.

A holiday dinner of roast turkey with oyster dressing, mashed potatoes, candied sweet potatoes, creamed peas, cranberries, ice cream, fruit cake and coffee was available at the Gem Restaurant for 75 cents.

A British firm is now offering housewives 12 cents a pound for the dust recovered from their vacuum sweepers. The company purifies the stuff and then processes it into vaccines for people with allergy to dust. How's that for real pay dirt?

It Scares Industry Away

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Londonderry, North Ireland: The young all over the world are mysterious, but who is more mysterious than Bernadette Devlin, the 22-year-old girl who represents Mid-Ulster in the British House of Commons: New Yorkers know her, for she journeyed to America last Autumn to raise money for a Catholic minority in her North Ireland which she considers oppressed. She is in many ways an appealing child, but what is she after: Justice, she says, and jobs, and houses for those who lives in slums. But she disdains majority rule and the constitutional process, she doesn't study architecture or city planning, and her solution to the economic question is to put it all in one bare, imperious statement at the end of her book, "The Price of My Soul."

"We'll build our own factories," she says, just like that. For its lordly oversimplification this reminds you of the American Yippee, Abbie Hoffman, who, when asked how he intended to run the steel industry after the "revolution," remarked, "How square can you get?"

As an old industrial reporter I was invited to come to North Ireland to look at some of the things the "discredited government" (the description is Miss Devlin's) has been doing in the attempt to make jobs. Maybe it hasn't been enough in Londonderry — or Derry, as the Catholics prefer to call it. Derry has a seventeen per cent unemployment rate in a population of some fifty thousand. This is a curious place, the center of a shorts-and-pajamas industry that has been long on employing women and short on employing men. A family is considered well off here if the wife works and the husband collects unemployment benefits. This can't do male pride any good, and it may explain some of the petrol bomb throwing that went on last Summer in the Bogside riots that resulted in thirteen court summonses against Miss Devlin. On four of these charges she was given a jail sentence of six months just before Christmas.

But if the male animal hasn't been able to set up as the prototype of the proud family breadwinner in textile-dominated Derry, it hasn't been the fault of the government which Bernadette Devlin excommunicates.

North Ireland is way ahead of the South in its industrial program, which may explain why the agitation for joining predominantly Protestant Ulster to the Catholic Dublin government doesn't go down even with many northern Catholics who now enjoy the superior benefits of the North. The Germans are in North Ireland with plastic moulding machine, tape recorder, hand tool, heat exchange and industrial belting companies. British companies (British Petroleum, British Enkalon, Courtaulds, Imperial Chemical) are all over the place. And the Americans have been coming in force, with Ford, Hughes Tool, Goodyear, American Machine and Foundry, Fafnir Bearing, Bridgeport Brass, Monsanto, Standard Telephone, Continental Oil and International Computers building throughout Ulster.

There are two big American developments in Derry — Essex Wire (an Indiana-based company which makes electrical wire assemblies for cars) and DuPont. Talks with Jim Harp, the General Manager of the local Essex Wire plant and Jeffrey Agate, the DuPont Works Director, brought forth some interesting sidelights on the Bogside rioting. Both Mr. Harp and Mr. Agate are frankly bored by the religious squabbling of segments of the local population. Neither employer asks the religious affiliation of job applicants, and DuPont's only rule is that no fighting over religion shall take place inside the plant.

The point is that while one milk company was losing thousands of milk bottles to rioters who wanted them for petrol bombs, Essex Wire and DuPont had no undue absentee troubles during the August Bogside uprising. DuPont's hiring for Orlon manufacture took place before December of 1968, and its Lycra production began in June of 1969. The company was building up its force of 1,800 workers, mostly male, before and during the "troubles."

This is the sort of thing that doesn't seem to interest Bernadette Devlin and her rioting friends. Londonderry had forty-five per cent of the overall Northern Ireland total of new firm jobs in 1968. If Bernadette Devlin were really interested in building enough factories in Derry to put all the remaining employed males to work, she would be studying industrial management and working for the Londonderry Development Commission. The attack on Derry's problems began well before Miss Devlin took up arms. Miss Devlin's heart is in the right place, but she doesn't have any idea of how factories come into existence.

The young talk about socialism and revolution. But industry comes from invention and saving — and entrepreneurial daring. I am something that must be planned over the years and without the distraction of rock throwing and filling milk bottles with gasoline. Such things only scare the factories away.

BERNADETTE DEVLIN, 22, youngest member of the British Parliament, looks fairly unconcerned as she is led to a car in Londonderry, Northern Ireland, after being convicted of inciting to riot and behaving riotously during the Protestant-Catholic strife last August. She got six months.

According to Boyle

By LOUISE COOK

(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — My husband's switch from cigarettes to a pipe may be good for his health, but it certainly hasn't done much for my well being.

In less temperate moments, I've considered filing formal charges accusing him of littering, polluting the air and creating a fire hazard.

It all started innocently enough when he was rummaging through a drawer.

"My old pipe," he exclaimed. "You know, I used to enjoy a pipe. Maybe..."

Next came selecting the proper tobacco. First it was purchased in two-ounce packages. Then four ounces. Finally one-pound cans.

"Think of all the money we're saving on cigarettes," my husband said happily as he doled out a dollar here and a dollar there.

By the end of the first week I was used to seeing pipe and tobacco in the middle of a previously spotless coffee table.

I gingerly picked stained pipe cleaners from sofa crevices.

But, accepting my fate, I even recommended a tobaccoist my husband might enjoy visiting.

Like a kid in a candy store, he surveyed the racks of pipes. Instead of penny candy he was looking at $5 and up goodies, encouraged by a wizened old man with what else—a pipe dangling from his teeth.

My husband settled on a pipe, for $10. "Not TOO bad," I thought.

Then he picked out a new brand of tobacco. This one had a number instead of a name and a label with a special space for his signature. It even smelled good—in the can.

Now there were two pipes on the coffee table. Along with miscellaneous bits of equipment and shreds of tobacco.

In the next few weeks a third pipe was purchased. And a fourth. And a fifth—for $20. Then when I caught him eyeing a set of six pipes for $10,000 I went into a state of semishock and dragged him out of the store.

Meanwhile, I was learning there's more to smoking a pipe than tobacco and a nicely shaped briar.

Swelling the coffee table clutter were a tobacco pouch—specially lined with oilcloth, a humidifier—with clay inset that had to be moistened regularly to prevent the tobacco from drying, a pipe rack, a special ashtray.

Drastic measures were indicated. I removed the clock from an end table, and watched wistfully as the polished surface gradually disappeared under the array of smoking gear. At least now I had an excuse for not dusting.

Each pipe was lovingly broken in. First it was filled with a tiny bit of tobacco, lit and smoked all the way down. There were lots of refillings, lots of lightings. And lots of burned matches and tobacco shreds.

The haze produced by an almost constant cigarette smoker was gone. In its place was the pea soup smog left by a pipe.

Everything smelled pipe tobacco. Not the pleasant scent of the unburned bits in the can, but the rank, stale odor only a pipe smoker could love.

My husband puffed merrily away. "It's not too bad is it?" he asked contentedly.

Aside from the fact the U.S. apparently is now abandoning one of its most useful overseas bases, there is the additional danger such a base could mount if it were to be turned over to hostile hands. If abandonment is the order of the day, at least none of the facilities paid for by U.S. funds should be left operative when the last American departs.

Rites Held For Lawson

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Delbert Howard Lawson, whose transplanted heart failed Wednesday night, will be buried today in Holy Cross Cemetery following funeral services at Church of the Annunciation.

A funeral home spokesman said rejection of the transplanted heart was not the cause of death of the 51-year-old former freight terminal employee.

Cleveland Clinic, which performed the heart transplant Sept. 4, 1968, conducted a post mortem but released its information to family members only.

The funeral home official said fibrillation, in which heart muscle fibers quiver independently rather than in unison, caused Lawson to collapse and die in his Akron home on Christmas Eve.

In Lawson's case this was said to indicate that the new heart, which had come from a 25-year-old woman who was injured fatally in a traffic accident, had developed the same defects that the original heart had. Doctors said Lawson suffered from deterioration and scarring of the muscle fibers and that without a new heart the disease was certain to be fatal.

The guitar in its earliest stages had four pairs of strings.

Londonderry, North Ireland: The young all over the world are mysterious, but who is more mysterious than Bernadette Devlin, the 22-year-old girl who represents Mid-Ulster in the British House of Commons: New Yorkers know her, for she journeyed to America last Autumn to raise money for a Catholic minority in her North Ireland which she considers oppressed. She is in many ways an appealing child, but what is she after: Justice, she says, and jobs, and houses for those who live in slums. But she disdains majority rule and the constitutional process, she doesn't study architecture or city planning, and her solution to the economic question is to put it all in one bare, imperious statement at the end of her book, "The Price of My Soul." "We'll build our own factories," she says, just like that. For its lordly oversimplification this reminds you of the American Yippie, Abbie Hoffman, who, when asked how he intended to run the steel industry after the "revolution," remarked, "How square can you get!"

As an old industrial reporter I was invited to come to North Ireland to look at some of the things the "discredited government" (the description is Miss Devlin's) has been doing in the attempt to make jobs. Maybe it hasn't been enough in Londonderry — or Derry, as the Catholics prefer to call it. Derry has a seventeen per cent unemployment rate in a population of some fifty thousand. This is a curious place, the center of a shorts-and-pajamas industry that has been long on employing women and short on employing men. A family is considered well off here if the wife works and the husband collects unemployment benefits. This can't do male pride any good, and it may explain some of the petrol bomb throwing that went on last Summer in the Bogside riots that resulted in thirteen court summonses against Miss Devlin. On four of these charges she was given a jail sentence of six months just before Christmas.

But if the male animal hasn't been able to set up as the prototype of the proud family breadwinner in textile-dominated Derry, it hasn't been the fault of the government which Bernadette Devlin exorcises.

North Ireland is way ahead of the South in its industrial program, which may explain why the agitation for joining predominantly Protestant Ulster to the Catholic Dublin government doesn't go down even with many northern Catholics who now enjoy the superior benefits of the North. The Germans are in North Ireland with plastic moulding machine, tape recorder, hand tool, heat exchange and industrial belting companies. British companies (British Petroleum, British Enkalon, Courtaulds, Imperial Chemical) are all over the place. And the Americans have been coming in force, with Ford, Hughes Tool, Goodyear, American Machine and Foundry, Fafnir Bearing, Bridgeport Brass, Monsanto, Standard Telephone, Continental Oil and International Computers building throughout Ulster.

There are two big American developments in Derry — Essex Wire (an Indiana-based company which makes electrical wire assemblies for cars) and DuPont. Talks with Jim Harp, the General Manager of the local Essex Wire plant and Jeffrey Agate, the DuPont Works Director, brought forth some interesting sidelights on

The safest way to slow down and stop an automobile on slippery, icy road surface is to lightly and rapidly "pump" the brake pedal, the Columbus Auto Club — AAA says. Hard, steady brake pressure locks the car's wheels and encourages skidding. The "pumping" technique means brakes are applied for an instant and released for an instant, keeping control of the vehicle in the driver's hands.

Slugs, the bugaboos of all gardeners, like beer so much the pests will crawl into a pan of it and drown themselves, according to a report to the Entomological Society of America. Fine! — but who wants to waste the tasty brew on a bunch of low-down worms?

On the British market is a new doll the entire wardrobe for what costs $984. Now that's what we call really dolling up!

Since 1955 annual golf course maintenance has gone up from an average of $2,469 a hole to $4,577. That's more than a drop in the bucket.

A British firm is now offering housewives 12 cents a pound for the dust recovered from their vacuum sweepers. The company purifies the stuff and then processes it into vaccines for people with allergy to dust. How's that for real pay dirt?

It Scares Industry Away

The Bogside rioting. Both Mr. Harp and Mr. Agate are frankly bored by the religious squabbling of segments of the local population. Neither employer asks the religious affiliation of job applicants, and DuPont's only rule is that no fighting over religion shall take place inside the plant.

The point is that while one milk company was losing thousands of milk bottles to rioters who wanted them for petrol bombs, Essex Wire and DuPont had no undue absentee troubles during the August Bogside uprising. DuPont's hiring for Orlon manufacture took place before December of 1968, and its Lycra production began in June of 1969. The company was building up its force of 1,800 workers, mostly male, before and during the "troubles."

This is the sort of thing that doesn't seem to interest Bernadette Devlin and her rioting friends. Londonderry had forty-five per cent of the overall Northern Ireland total of new firm jobs in 1968. If Bernadette Devlin were really interested in building enough factories in Derry to put all the remaining employed males to work, she would be studying industrial management and working for the Londonderry Development Commission. The attack on Derry's problems began well before Miss Devlin took up arms. Miss Devlin's heart is in the right place, but she doesn't have any idea of how factories come into existence.

The young talk about socialism and revolution. But industry comes from invention and saving, and entrepreneurial daring. It is something that must be planned over the years and without the distraction of rock throwing and filling milk bottles with gasoline. Such things only scare the factories away.

BERNADETTE DEVLIN, 22, youngest member of the British Parliament, looks fairly unconcerned as she is led to a car in Londonderry, Northern Ireland, after being convicted of inciting to riot and behaving riotously during the Protestant-Catholic strife last August. She got six months.

(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — My husband's switch from cigarettes to a pipe may be good for his health, but it certainly hasn't done much for my well being.

In less temperate moments, I've considered filing formal charges accusing him of littering, polluting the air and creating a fire hazard.

It all started innocently enough when he was rummaging through a drawer. "My old pipe," he exclaimed. "You know, I used to enjoy a pipe. Maybe..."

Next came selecting the proper tobacco. First it was purchased in two-ounce packages. Then four ounces. Finally one-pound cans.

"Think of all the money we're saving on cigarettes," my husband said happily as he doled out a dollar here and a dollar there.

By the end of the first week I was used to seeing pipe and tobacco in the middle of a previously spotless coffee table. I gingerly picked stained pipe cleaners from sofa crevices.

But, accepting my fate, I even recommended a tobaccoist my husband might enjoy visiting.

Like a kid in a candy store, he surveyed the racks of pipes. In stead of penny candy he was looking at $5 and up goodies, encouraged by a wizened old man with what else—a pipe dangling from his teeth.

My husband settled on a pipe, for $10. "Not TOO bad," I thought.

Then he picked out a new brand of tobacco. This one had a number in stead of a name and a label with a special space for his signature. It even smelled good—in the can.

Now there were two pipes on the coffee table. Along with miscellaneous bits of equipment and shreds of tobacco.

In the next few weeks a third pipe was purchased. And a fourth. And a fifth—for $20. Then when I caught him eyeing a set of six pipes for $10.00 I went into a state of semishock and dragged him out of the store.

Meanwhile, I was learning there's more to smoking a pipe than tobacco and a nicely shaped briar.

Swelling the coffee table clutter were a tobacco pouch—specially lined with oilcloth, a humidor—with clay inset that had to be moistened regularly to prevent the tobacco from drying, a pipe rack, a special ashtray.

Drastic measures were indicated. I removed the clock from an end table, and watched wistfully as the polished surface gradually disappeared under the array of smoking gear. At least now I had an excuse for not dusting.

Each pipe was lovingly broken in. First it was filled with a tiny bit of tobacco, lit and smoked all the way down. There were lots of refillings, lots of lightings. And lots of burned matches and tobacco shreds.

The haze produced by an almost constant cigarette smoker was gone. In its place was the pea soup smog left by a pipe.

Everything smelled pipe tobacco. Not the pleasant scent of the unburned bits in the can, but the rank, stale odor only a pipe smoker could love.

My husband puffed merrily away. "It's not too bad is it?" he asked contentedly.

Psychiatric Help Can Cost Him A Job!

DEAR ABBY: This isn't a problem that you (or anyone else) can solve, but in recent years with so many enlightened people seeking psychiatric help, it's worth mentioning.

Several years ago I was depressed for a period of time, and since I considered myself an enlightened person, I went to a private psychiatrist. He assured me that there was nothing seriously wrong, that I didn't need prolonged psychiatric care, and after a few more appointments, he dismissed me. That was the sum total of my "psychiatric treatment."

A year ago, I applied for a position: I was asked, "Have you ever had psychiatric treatment?" Seeing no reason to conceal the truth, I mentioned my experience.

In case you don't know this, there are many government positions (and private ones) which cannot be held by anyone with a "history" of psychiatric treatment.

You can be crazy as a loon, but if you've never been to a psychiatrist you are clean as a whistle!

Now, what do you think of that?

"HISTORY IN HOUSTON"
DEAR HISTORY: There are still in existence a number of laws, rules, regulations, traditions, and precedents which are unjust, archaic senseless and plain idiotic.

If one single session (or a hundred) with a psychiatrist makes one a "mental case" then all psychoanalysts are "mental cases," because in order to become a psychoanalyst one must himself be a psychoanalyst.

Steering clear of a psychiatrist's office does not necessarily affirm one's good mental health. The person who boasts that he's never been to a psychiatrist can be a lot sicker than those who have.

DEAR ABBY: Every Friday afternoon I baby-sit with my grandchild so my daughter-in-law who is 28 can take her art lesson.

The teacher is a male neighbor, and four other girls are in this class.

Last Friday I noticed that my daughter-in-law was taking her bathrobe to art class with her. Out of curiosity I asked her why. Her answer shocked me. It seems the girls have been taking turns posing in the nude as models—and it was her turn that day.

She asked me not to mention it to my son, but I didn't promise anything.

I don't want to start trouble between them, but I think her husband has a right to know about this, don't you? Or should I keep my mouth shut?

NO NAME, PLEASE
DEAR NO NAME: I think her husband has a right to know. And tell her that if she doesn't tell him, you will.

DETROIT (AP) — It was a hot year in 1969 for U.S. auto firms and some of their personnel.

—The automakers felt increased heat from foreign competition and moved to meet the challenge with a new family of subcompacts.

—The federal government put more heat on the automakers to come up with new ways of reducing air pollution from cars.

—The manufacturers overstoked the furnace of production twice and found that slackening sales were causing new car inventories to pile up in the spring and late fall.

—Ford President Semon E. "Bunkie" Knudsen got fired by Henry Ford II.

Knudsen's firing probably was the most sensational moment of the year for the auto community around Detroit. Ford said simply: "Things just didn't work out." Knudsen came to Ford 19 months earlier after resigning as one of the top General Motors vice presidents.

Imports, dismissed in the past as something of a fad, were engaged directly during 1969 as

Consumer Affairs Division Planned

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Consumer Affairs Division for the state Department of Commerce has been proposed by State Auditor and Republican gubernatorial candidate Roger Cloud.

Cloud also said Saturday he planned to ask citizens to serve as a campaign advisory force on consumer affairs during the campaign.

The proposed new division would act as a watchdog agency to ensure that the consumer "receives value when he spends his money," Cloud said.

Ford introduced its new subcompact, the Maverick, and American Motors its Hornet. The Detroit automakers could hardly ignore the growing import sales figures which topped one million for the first time in history during 1969.

Volkswagen paced the imports, as usual, but suffered reduced sales from 1968 as a combined result of stiffer competition and a long dock strike which made deliveries of some models difficult.

The other automakers were preparing to follow Ford's lead with introductions set for mid-1970 by Chevrolet and about a year later by Chrysler. American Motors said it would introduce its Gremlin, even smaller than Hornet, by late spring or summer of 1970.

Former Draft Aide Dies In Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Retired Army Col. Joseph A. Grotenrath, a former Selective Service adjutant general in Washington, D.C., died Saturday in University Hospital here. He was 67.

Col. Grotenrath, a native of New Castle, Pa., served in World War II and the Korean War and held various administrative posts until his retirement in 1959.

duce its Gremlin, even smaller than Hornet, by late spring or summer of 1970.

During the year President Nixon appointed a committee to study alternatives to the internal combustion engine. The goal was to reduce air pollution caused by car engines. Congressional hearings on the subject were held in December and the automakers testified that they were pushing ahead as fast as possible but, that an alternative to the internal combustion engine was not seen in the near future.

Automakers shuffled production schedules around as they tried to keep up with the customers' tastes in the auto field.

The inventory of new cars in dealer hands soared to 1,435,080 cars in early December—about 400,000 units ahead of that period year ago—and it caused some sleepless nights for Detroit's top executives who constantly try to figure in advance what the customer wants.

The four U.S. auto firms juggled production schedules and were running about 520,000 cars behind 1968 calendar year totals as of early December. They built 7,608,663 cars in that time, compared with 8,128,353 in the first 11 months of 1968. During 1968 a record 9,556,511 cars—including imports—were sold.

Auto prices went up for the ninth consecutive year in the 1970 model run and Henry Ford II said in December that he foresaw a further price hike when the 1971s come out. GM's average price increase was $125 Ford's $108, Chrysler's $107 and American Motors $81.

Scattered labor disputes at General Motors plants in 1969 and a full-sized strike at American Motors were seen by some as muscle-flexing by the United Auto Workers in advance of the new contract talks with the auto industry in the summer of 1970.

Heart Transplant Patient Succumbs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
PARIS (AP) — Jose Fores, a heart transplant patient, died today at the Broussais Hospital.

Fores, a refugee from Spain, was operated on Nov. 24, 1968. He had been showing symptoms of rejecting the new heart recently.

Of the 10 persons given new hearts in France, Emmanuel Vitria is now the only survivor. He got a new heart in Marseille four days after Fores, on Nov. 28, 1968.

Arson Probers Study Blaze In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Arson investigators were probing the cause of a fire that destroyed a four-story apartment building in Cleveland's Hough area early Sunday, causing damage estimated by the fire department at $100,000.

Fire authorities said it was the second fire in two days in the 69-suite building at East 77th Street and Lexington Avenue.

The Red Cross said more than 130 persons were made homeless, and many of the families in the building lost all their possessions.

The Red Cross set up an aid center in a nearby church, provided food and clothing and also provided housing for at least 35 families in hotels and motels.

Prescription Lenses Make News When Placed In Zingy New Frames

TWO VIEWS — There are different ways of looking at things and the high fashioned frames are engineered to take prescription lenses and are optically correct making them a swinging accessory.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Fashion has finally caught up with girls who wear glasses. There's a whole new thing going for them. Currently, you can't tell the prescription glasses from the clear glass ones because specs have become a fashion accessory and everyone is wearing them, need 'em or not! It's a boon for the woman whose vision is somewhat less than 20-20.

How did it all happen? According to Barry Baum, the 24-year-old with-it young president of Riviera Eyewear, it happened in a surprising place—in the fashion world! Novelty glasses with tinted lenses came on big as an accessory. Finally, optical companies picked up the cue and followed suit.

It had to be, says Barry, because girls who wore glasses wanted that big-eyed high fashion look. Some of them, picked up frames at notions counters and had optical lenses put in them. It didn't work. Novelty frames are not properly balanced and hence not optically correct.

Logically, the next step was for optical frame makers to hop on the bandwagon, and they have. Riviera, which is big on European frames—they're always a few years ahead in styling—has created that big-eyed look for the girl who needs prescription lenses. They don't look prescription, they look fabulous, especially with tinted lenses.

And let me tell you about them. Those hint of tint lenses are the most. Team them with over-size platter frames and how do you feel? For the first time in years, you feel conscious of glasses in the nicest kind of way. You're conscious that they're chic and smart, a rather swinging accessory rather than a dull, dreary necessity.

The thing about big-eye optical frames, which come in six basic shapes—hexagons, octagons, rectangles, ovals, rounds and squares—is that they are designed to fit your nose, your facial shape, your head. They actually create an illusion for they look over-sized but construction enables them to utilize a smaller lens, keeping prescription costs down.

With SPECTACULARS all the rage, the big question these days when a gal with blue, beige, gray or green tinted goggles appears is this: Does she or doesn't she have to wear them? Either way, they look only great!

Girl Kidney
Patient May Go Home

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 10-month-old suburban Columbus girl, believed to be the youngest person ever to undergo a kidney transplant operation, may be strong enough to go home in two months.

Officials at Children's Hospital here say little Heather Ann Stockman of Grove City received the kidney of a 2-year-old boy Dec. 10. The boy died at the hospital of injuries received in an automobile accident.

Doctors said Heather's new kidney began functioning almost immediately after the four-hour transplant operation. The 12-pound, blue-eyed red-head was reported in fair condition early today.

She has gained almost two pounds since the operation, but still is underweight as a result of her illness. She suffered from a condition which affected her red blood cells and her kidneys.

Since drugs she is receiving to suppress the rejection response also suppress her ability to fight infection, she is kept in semi-isolation at the hospital, away from contact with colds and other diseases.

The doctors say they foresee no future problems for the little girl, but admit they are on unfamiliar ground because of her age. The youngest patient known to have received a new kidney before Heather's operation was a 16-month-old child in Portland, Ore. The operation was unsuccessful.

Allies Have Accomplished Viet Breakthrough - - For Now

The Circleville Herald
Mon. Dec. 29, 1969 7
Circleville, Ohio

Want Ads
474-3131

EDITOR'S NOTE—Where does the Vietnam war stand as 1969 ends? The following appears in the two Pulitzer Prize Associated Press correspondents who have covered the war continuously for seven years. They revisited all four corps areas and talked with hundreds of Americans and Vietnamese. This is the first of three stories giving their finds.

By PETER ARNETT
and

SAIGON (AP) — This year, allied forces have accomplished the first major breakthrough since 1962 in wresting the Vietnamese countryside from Viet Cong control, and people are flowing back into long-abandoned farmlands and hamlets.

Yet all the while North Vietnam has been building up its armed forces along South Vietnam's borders. What these forces will do, as the United States continues to withdraw combat forces, is the big question for 1970 and later.

The momentum of the nationwide breakthrough against the Viet Cong in the countryside is visible, measurable and continuing. But there is also general agreement that if this momentum falters, as it has in the past because of ineptness or political division, there will be little chance for any pro-Western government and society to survive in South Vietnam. There will be no time to try again.

Planners of the American withdrawal are proceeding with caution. They say that if American troops are pulled out too quickly the psychological shock on the Saigon army, combined with a military vacuum on the battlefield, could bring collapse.

Intent on creating a country that can survive politically and militarily in its present form, the American proponents of Vietnamization seek not only to replace American troops but also to revolutionize and reorganize Saigon's million-man military structure.

Hanoi has plans, too.

The first is to push hard with a winter-spring offensive, pressuring the population, revising the Viet Cong, and forcing American casualties. If it took American troops still in Vietnam to contain a serious assault this could delay 1970 withdrawals.

The classic alternative available to the North Vietnamese is to wait, gambling all on a conventional thrust across the borders when they feel that manageable numbers of Americans remain.

The main catalyst for Saigon's breakthrough in the countryside are the Americans, men like Brig. Gen. Hubert S. Cunningham, commander of the battle-scarred 173rd Airborne Brigade, who from his helicopter over coastal Binh Dinh Province proudly points out the ribbons of shiny aluminum roofed houses that edge the streams and dot the sand dunes.

He enthusiastically recounts how the bomb-cratered paddies, fields that lay dark green and fallow for years in abandoned valleys now mirror the skies from flooded surfaces as farmers work them again. Or he describes the intense hunger for the land that has peasant farmers attempting to return to their old fields in remote valleys still torn with war.

Cunningham says, "I have made a promise to these people, to the hamlet and district chiefs, to stay to help until the job is done. We can leave only when they can protect themselves."

Veteran troopers of the battle of Hamburger Hill, men of the 101st Airborne Division who had seen only fighting and destruction in Vietnam, are now deployed in old churches and farmhouses alongside Saigon's Popular Force soldiers, long the most ill-regarded in the Vietnam war. The paratroopers' mission is to coax the timid militiamen to fight, to give them confidence to move at night and lie in ambushes. American soldiers in groups as small as five men have settled in with Vietnamese population in this grass-roots basic training role.

Unleashing the countryside from the Viet Cong's grip is not being achieved by miracles. U.S. planners admit that standards sought in past pacification programs have been drastically lowered.

"Today the hearts and minds are only an incidental aspect, not an overriding one," according to one of the planners.

He refers to an old slogan about the primary need to win over the hearts and minds of the people.

The new catchword is security, enough armed men to stand guard and overwhelm the Viet Cong.

The precondition of all the rural breakthroughs was the same: regular enemy battalions had to be destroyed or pushed away before the process got under way. And the enemy has to be kept at arm's length forever after.

The process is simple, parceling the peasantry in political units of 1,000 persons each, recruiting from amongst them a 43-man Popular Force platoon with its only responsibility to watch over the people and the fields.

"When we can maintain security the countryside opens up overnight," commented a U.S. general officer who has witnessed the development. "We can't hold the farmer back in the refugee camps once this happens. He moves out. The schools, the markets and the roads soon follow."

Some new factors have emerged. One, the mood attitude of the population, cannot be statistically measured but it can be felt. The people seem to think the worst days are over, that the terrible slaughter and destruction of past years will never be repeated.

Feelings of hopelessness and defeat once pervaded the millions vegetating in refugee camps and in slums at the edges of the cities and army bases. These feelings are lifting. The big war has receded for most people, back to the jungles and swamps whence it emerged in 1962. There is less shooting, less noise. The guerrilla who mines a road, the terrorist assassin, the Viet Cong tax collector still concern people but the threat is minimal compared to the total war of other years.

The rural people are aware that American troops are beginning to go home. They know that the North Vietnamese trooper who dug into their backyards last year to fight it out with American tanks has also gone.

Politics and war beyond the palm-fringed horizon do not concern them.

Winter driving often is a slippery business, cautions the Columbus Auto Club — AAA. When driving on ice and snow be sure to avoid sudden application of the brakes. If you start to skid, steer in the direction of the skid. In other words, if the rear wheels skid to the right, turn the steering wheel to the right.

cern the peasant as he toils to refill bomb craters and rebuild paddy dikes.

The farmer is unaware that the North Vietnamese seem to be assembling greater numbers of forces than ever before, with better weapons.

The size of Hanoi's effort is at present shown only in intelligence reports, or becomes apparent to reconnaissance patrols that probe across the borders. The reports indicate that the North Vietnamese are perfecting their military supply bases.

While the Americans conduct war from supply bases all along the Vietnamese coast the North Vietnamese are now set up in underground mountain caverns in Laos down to openly occupied bases in Cambodia.

A functioning enemy supply and storage system worries American strategists more than the appearance of some new infantry units in the northern border zone. It indicates a permanent enemy presence.

It is primarily this threat that makes U.S. military men reluctant to withdraw from Vietnam more swiftly.

The Americans are not concerned if the Vietnamese lose a few battles along the remote borders. What worries them is that Hanoi might break through the defensive shield and spill over populated lowlands as they did in the Tet offensive of 1968.

"If you have to fight in the populated areas the battle is already half lost," a senior American in the northern 1st Corps Area observes. Such fighting could repeat the cycle of destruction and the uprooting of millions. It could lead to a resurgence of the Viet Cong, who in most areas have taken to the hills or lie dormant in villages.

"If the security at the distant border and in the hamlets is not continued after we are gone, and the people are not protected, then the whole thing would have been another noble failure," commented Capt. Ismael Noriega, of New York City, who commands a U.S. infantry company working in a village.

The high casualty battles of 1969 were fought along the defensive shield at the border. Because of the impact of American casualties, the tendency has been to put Vietnamese infantrymen up front to bear the brunt of the bloodletting in several areas. More American units intend to step back in 1970. Weekly Vietnamese casualties have risen since this practice began; American casualties have dropped.

The best authorities say Vietnamese divisions still lack the basics for long campaigns in remote areas and they will be unable in the foreseeable future to stop all North Vietnamese thrusts into the security shield. Large American units may have to stand behind the Vietnamese.

The U.S. presence holds the border shield together, but Americans are involved in much more than this aspect of the war.

While some battalions of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division conduct elaborate mobile operations with helicopters at night, working with electronic sensors that feed information of enemy activity into computers guiding artillery positions, other paratroopers teach unpaid civilians how to load shotguns.

Soldiers and generals understand now that Vietnamization means much more than substituting Vietnamese for American soldiers, recruiting new battalions, and passing out guns.

Most Americans in Vietnam seem to understand the immediate purpose of what they are doing, whether the infantrymen in the jungles of War Zone C, or the company medic giving aspirins to peasants.

The desire of the senior Americans running the current programs is to leave Vietnam as soon as possible, but without being defeated. The Vietnamese are being swept along with the momentum.

Some questions governing Vietnam's future cannot be answered now. Among them: Will the Vietnamese run out of breath? Will the Americans run out of time? Will the North Vietnamese run out of patience?

Next: The guerrillas fade, but the hard core lingers on.

Allies Have Accomplished Viet Breakthrough -- For Now

The Circleville Herald
Mon., Dec. 29, 1969 7
Circleville, Ohio

EDITOR'S NOTE—Where the Vietnam war stand as 1969 ends? The following appears in Associated Press correspondence which have covered the war continually for seven years. They revisited all four corps areas and talked with hundreds of Americans and Vietnamese. This is the first of three stories giving their finds.

and
HORST FAAS

SAIGON (AP) — This year, allied forces have accomplished the first major breakthrough since 1962 in wresting the Vietnamese countryside from Viet Cong control, and people are flowing back into long-abandoned farmlands and hamlets.

Yet all the while North Vietnam has been building up its armed forces along South Vietnam's borders. What these forces will do, as the United States continues to withdraw combat forces, is the big question for 1970 and later.

The momentum of the nationwide breakthrough against the Viet Cong in the countryside is visible, measurable and continuing. But there is also general agreement that if this momentum falters, as it has in the past because of ineptness or political division, there will be little chance for any pro-Western government and society to survive in South Vietnam. There will be no time to try again.

Planners of the American withdrawal are proceeding with caution. They say that if American troops are pulled out too quickly the psychological shock on the Saigon army, combined with a military vacuum on the battlefield, could bring collapse.

Intent on creating a country that can survive politically and militarily in its present form, the American proponents of Vietnamization seek not only to replace American troops but also to revolutionize and reorganize Saigon's million-man military structure.

Hanoi has plans, too.

The first is to push hard with a winter-spring offensive, pressuring the population, revising the Viet Cong, and forcing American casualties. If it took American troops still in Vietnam to contain a serious assault, this could delay 1970 withdrawals.

The classic alternative available to the North Vietnamese is to wait, gambling all on a conventional thrust across the borders when they feel that manageable numbers of Americans remain.

The main catalysts for Saigon's breakthrough in the countryside are the Americans, men like Brig. Gen. Hubert S. Cunningham, commander of the battle-scarred 173rd Airborne Brigade, who from his helicopter over coastal Binh Dinh Province proudly points out the ribbons of shiny aluminum-roofed houses that edge the streams and dot the sand dunes.

He enthusiastically recounts how the bomb-cratered paddies that lay dark green and fallow for years in abandoned valleys now mirror the skies from flooded surfaces as farmers work them again. Or he describes the intense hunger for the land that has peasant farmers attempting to return to their old fields in remote valleys still torn with war.

Cunningham says, "I have made a promise to these people, to the hamlet and district chiefs, to stay to help until the job is done. We can leave only when they can protect themselves."

Veteran troopers of the battle of Hamburger Hill, men of the 101st Airborne Division who had seen only fighting and destruction in Vietnam, are now deployed in old churches and farmhouses alongside Saigon's Popular Force soldiers, long the most ill-regarded in the Vietnam war. The paratroopers' mission is to coax the timid militiamen to fight, to give them confidence to move at night and lie in ambushes. American soldiers in groups as small as five men have settled in with Vietnamese population in this grass-roots basic training role.

Unraveling the countryside from the Viet Cong's grip is not being achieved by miracles. U.S. planners admit that standards sought in past pacification programs have been drastically lowered.

"Today the hearts and minds are only an incidental aspect, not an overriding one," according to one of the planners.

He refers to an old slogan about the primary need to win over the hearts and minds of the people.

The new catchword is security, enough armed men to stand guard and overwhelm the Viet Cong.

The precondition of all the rural breakthroughs was the same: regular enemy battalions had to be destroyed or pushed away before the process got underway. And the enemy has to be kept at arm's length forever after.

The process is simple, parceling the peasantry in political units of 1,000 persons each, recruiting from amongst them a 43-man Popular Force platoon with its only responsibility to watch over the people and the fields.

"When we can maintain security the countryside opens up overnight," commented a U.S. general officer who has witnessed the development. "We can't hold the farmer back in the refugee camps once this happens. He moves out. The schools, the markets and the roads soon follow."

Some new factors have emerged. One, the mood attitude of the population, cannot be statistically measured but it can be felt. The people seem to think the worst days are over, that the terrible slaughter and destruction of past years will never be repeated.

Feelings of hopelessness and defeat once pervaded the millions vegetating in refugee camps and in slums at the edges of the cities and army bases. These feelings are lifting. The big war has receded for most people, back to the jungles and swamps whence it emerged in 1962. There is less shooting, less noise. The guerrilla who mines a road, the terrorist assassin, the Viet Cong tax collector still concern people but the threat is minimal compared to the total war of other years.

The rural people are aware that American troops are beginning to go home. They know that the North Vietnamese trooper who dug into their backyards last year to fight it out with American tanks has also gone.

Politics and war beyond the palm-fringed horizon do not con-

Winter driving often is a slippery business, cautions the Columbus Auto Club — AAA. When driving on ice and snow be sure to avoid sudden application of the brakes. cern the peasant as he toils to refill bomb craters and rebuild paddy dikes.

The farmer is unaware that the North Vietnamese seem to be assembling greater numbers of forces than ever before, with better weapons.

The size of Hanoi's effort is at present shown only in intelligence reports, or becomes apparent to reconnaissance patrols that probe across the borders. The reports indicate that the North Vietnamese are perfecting their military supply bases.

While the Americans conduct war from supply bases all along the Vietnamese coast the North Vietnamese are now set up in underground mountain caverns in Laos down to openly occupied bases in Cambodia.

A functioning enemy supply and storage system worries American strategists more than the appearance of some new infantry units in the northern border zone. It indicates a permanent enemy presence.

It is primarily this threat that makes U.S. military men reluctant to withdraw from Vietnam more swiftly.

The Americans are not concerned if the Vietnamese lose a few battles along the remote borders. What worries them is that Hanoi might break through the defensive shield and spill over populated lowlands as they did in the Tet offensive of 1968.

"If you have to fight in the populated areas the battle is already half lost," a senior American in the northern 1st Corps Area observes. Such fighting could repeat the cycle of destruction and the uprooting of millions. It could lead to a resurgence of the Viet Cong, who in most areas have taken to the hills or lie dormant in villages.

"If the security at the distant border and in the hamlets is not continued after we are gone, and the people are not protected, then the whole thing would have been another noble failure," commented Capt. Ismael Noriega, of New York City, who commands a U.S. infantry company working in a village.

The high casualty battles of 1969 were fought along the defensive shield at the border. Because of the impact of American casualties, the tendency has been to put Vietnamese infantrymen up front to bear the brunt of the bloodletting in several areas. More American units intend to step back in 1970. Weekly Vietnamese casualties have risen since this practice began; American casualties have dropped.

The best authorities say Vietnamese divisions still lack the basics for long campaigns in remote areas and they will be unable in the foreseeable future to stop all North Vietnamese thrusts into the security shield. Large American units may have to stand behind the Vietnamese. The U.S. presence holds the border shield together, but Americans are involved in much more than this aspect of the war.

While some battalions of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division conduct elaborate mobile operations with helicopters at night, working with electronic sensors that feed information of enemy activity into computers guiding artillery positions, other paratroopers teach unpaid civilians how to load shotguns.

Soldiers and generals understand now that Vietnamization means much more than substituting Vietnamese for American soldiers, recruiting new battalions, and passing out guns.

Most Americans in Vietnam seem to understand the immediate purpose of what they are doing, whether the infantrymen in the jungles of War Zone C, or the company medic giving aspirins to peasants.

The desire of the senior Americans running the current programs is to leave Vietnam as soon as possible, but without being defeated. The Vietnamese are being swept along with the momentum.

Some questions governing Vietnam's future cannot be answered now. Among them: Will the Vietnamese run out of breath? Will the Americans run out of time? Will the North Vietnamese run out of patience?

Next: The guerrillas fade, but the hard core lingers on.

Declare Tooth Decay May Be On Way Out

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dental scientists report they see possibilities of virtually eliminating tooth decay within the next decade. Their hopes are based on relatively recent evidence strengthening theories that dental decay is an infectious germ-caused disease—just like the common cold.

The U.S. Public Health Service believes a combination of direct treatment—including use of a chemical enzyme to block the action of the bacteria—is the more promising approach.

The U.S. Navy and private researchers in the United States and abroad are trying to develop a vaccine or some other means of preventing the growth of bacteria—as distinguished from trying to outwit them by treatment techniques.

The Navy has a special reason for trying to perfect tooth decay prevention.

Whereas civilians have ready access to dentists when they have tooth problems, Navy men on extended, isolation-type duty—such as service aboard nuclear submarines or in the Antarctic—lack such services. There's no room for a dentist on such assignments, so a decayed tooth can present a real problem.

It's equally obvious that if manned spaceflight to distant planets is undertaken—requiring years of travel—prevention of tooth decay would be an urgent requirement, lest painful toothaches jeopardize a mission.

The effort to halt or prevent tooth decay is motivated by such statistics as these:

—There are currently an estimated 800 million unfilled decayed teeth—known technically as caries—in the U.S. population. The average child, on reaching school age, has three decayed teeth; the average 15-year-old has 11 such teeth.

—Elimination of caries as a public health problem would free at least half the average dentist's time and realize an annual saving of about $1 billion in patient costs.

Dr. Seymour J. Kreshover, director of the Public Health Service's National Institute of Dental Research, says:

"It is our belief that if a concerted effort is initiated now, it should be possible to make dental decay almost completely preventable within the next decade.

"This contention is based on laboratory evidence that dental caries is an infectious disease, resulting from a characteristic group of bacteria that reside on the teeth. These bacteria, the evidence indicates, cause the fermentation of carbohydrates in the diet—thereby producing harmful acids and enzymes that destroy the teeth."

Kreshover said one promising research approach stems from a finding that an enzyme—called "dextranase"—if applied to the teeth, can remove and prevent formation of the dextran-containing bacterial masses at least in animals.

Limited pilot studies in humans appear to confirm this.

but it is not yet definitely known whether dextranase can actually prevent tooth decay in humans. What about the quest for a vaccine against tooth decay—either one that could be taken by mouth, or one requiring injection?

Capt. Gordon H. Rovelstad of the Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery in Washington says it's possible now to develop a vaccine against "strep mutants," believed to be the chief bacterial villain in the tooth-decay picture.

Indeed, British dental researchers reported early this year that a vaccine made of live "strep" germs isolated from a decayed tooth in a human sharply reduced tooth decay in three monkeys, compared with unvaccinated animals.

But there's a drawback to present use of such a vaccine in humans. Live "strep" germs, and possibly even killed ones, might stimulate the formation of antibodies which could damage the heart—specifically, in the form of rheumatic fever.

But Rovelstad says researchers at Northwestern University, in collaboration with Navy dental scientists, have come up with this promising lead which might offer a way to circumvent the problem.

Their findings suggest that it might eventually be possible to make vaccines out of some harmless material that would, in effect, attack proteins in the cell-walls of strep germs linked with tooth decay, thus checking their growth.

This would be in contrast to the conventional method of using whole germs—live or killed—in vaccines so as to stimulate production of antibodies against naturally invading microbes of the same type. The latter is the classic method used in such vaccines as those against polio. But, such vaccines do not pose a threat to the heart as would a vaccine made of whole "strep" germs.

Declare Tooth Decay May Be On Way Out

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dental scientists report they see possibilities of virtually eliminating tooth decay within the next decade. Their hopes are based on relatively recent evidence strengthening theories that dental decay is an infectious germ-caused disease—just like the common cold.

The U.S. Public Health Service believes a combination of direct treatment—including use of a chemical enzyme to block the action of the bacteria—is the more promising approach.

The U.S. Navy and private researchers in the United States and abroad are trying to develop a vaccine or some other means of preventing the growth of bacteria—as distinguished from trying to outwit them by treatment techniques.

The Navy has a special reason for trying to perfect tooth decay prevention.

Whereas civilians have ready access to dentists when they have tooth problems, Navy men on extended, isolation-type duty—such as service aboard nuclear submarines or in the Antarctic—lack such services. There's no room for a dentist on such assignments, so a decayed tooth can present a real problem.

It's equally obvious that if manned spaceflight to distant planets is undertaken—requiring years of travel—prevention of tooth decay would be an urgent requirement, lest painful toothaches jeopardize a mission.

The effort to halt or prevent tooth decay is motivated by such statistics as these:

—There are currently an estimated 800 million unfilled decayed teeth—known technically as caries—in the U.S. population. The average child, on reaching school age, has three decayed teeth; the average 15-year-old has 11 such teeth.

—Elimination of caries as a public health problem would free at least half the average dentist's time and realize an annual saving of about $1 billion in patient costs.

Dr. Seymour J. Kreshover, director of the Public Health Service's National Institute of Dental Research, says:

"It is our belief that if a concerted effort is initiated now, it should be possible to make dental decay almost completely preventable within the next decade.

"This contention is based on laboratory evidence that dental caries is an infectious disease, resulting from a characteristic group of bacteria that reside on the teeth. These bacteria, the evidence indicates, cause the fermentation of carbohydrates in the diet—thereby producing harmful acids and enzymes that destroy the teeth."

Kreshover said one promising research approach stems from a finding that an enzyme—called "dextranase"—if applied to the teeth, can remove and prevent formation of the dextran-containing bacterial masses at least in animals.

Limited pilot studies in humans appear to confirm this, but it is not yet definitely known whether dextranase can actually prevent tooth decay in humans. What about the quest for a vaccine against tooth decay—either one that could be taken by mouth, or one requiring injection?

Capt. Gordon H. Rovelstad of the Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery in Washington says it's possible now to develop a vaccine against "strep mutants," believed to be the chief bacterial villain in the tooth-decay picture.

Indeed, British dental researchers reported early this year that a vaccine made of live "strep" germs isolated from a decayed tooth in a human sharply reduced tooth decay in three monkeys, compared with unvaccinated animals.

But there's a drawback to present use of such a vaccine in humans. Live "strep" germs, and possibly even killed ones, might stimulate the formation of antibodies which could damage the heart—specifically, in the form of rheumatic fever.

But Rovelstad says researchers at Northwestern University, in collaboration with Navy dental scientists, have come up with this promising lead which might offer a way to circumvent the problem.

Their findings suggest that it might eventually be possible to make vaccines out of some harmless material that would, in effect, attack proteins in the cell-walls of strep germs linked with tooth decay, thus checking their growth.

This would be in contrast to the conventional method of using whole germs—live or killed—in vaccines so as to stimulate production of antibodies against naturally invading microbes of the same type. The latter is the classic method used in such vaccines as those against polio. But, such vaccines do not pose a threat to the heart as would a vaccine made of whole "strep" germs.

High Winds Rake California Areas

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Winds up to 75 miles an hour hit Southern California Sunday, stirring coastal waters, knocking out power lines and whipping up a brush fire in a suburban community.

The Santa Ana Winds—rushing from deserts to the sea—forced closure of some roads to bulky vehicles, gave pilots of small planes trouble and uprooted trees.

Officials said a brush fire blackened eight acres in Glendora in 90 minutes before it was contained by some 1,000 firefighters. The blaze in foothills 12 miles east of Los Angeles threatened about 40 homes valued at about $50,000 each.

Pope Urges Work With The Poor

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has urged Roman Catholics to help those who live in slum conditions.

The pontiff, who made a Christmas visit to a Rome shantytown parish, told thousands in St. Peter's Square for his Sunday noon blessing:

"Reflect on the persistence, on the revival of these inhuman conditions in which so many poor people are living—men, women, children who are our brothers in Christ."

Foreign Imports Continue To Plague Steel Industry

By JACK SHOLL
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — While increased worldwide demand for steel pushed U.S. production higher than ever, foreign imports continued to plague the domestic steel industry during 1969.

Foreign producers were expected to stay within their self-imposed import quota of 14 million tons this year and come nowhere near the record 17 million tons that swamped the country in 1968.

But industry sources said the figure is deceptive since foreign steelmakers shifted strategy early in the year. They said foreign steelmakers stopped exporting basic, low-priced products and began flooding the American market with higher priced specialty steels, particularly stainless steels and alloys used in the automotive, aircraft, homebuilding and appliance industries.

Industry sources reported increased congressional support for import quota legislation during 1969, but doubted whether a bill could be passed before 1970 at the earliest.

U.S. mills began pouring out

steel at a record rate to cater to a world steel boom which erupted early in the year. In order to feed a steel-hungry Europe, domestic producers exported 2.5 million tons in the first eight months of 1969. That's about a 165 per cent increase over the 1.5 million tons exported during all of 1968.

Domestic steel production for the first nine months of the year was close to 105 million tons, well above the record 103 million tons churned out during the first nine months of 1965. Industry observers said total production for the year would reach 137 million tons, which exceeds the all-time high of 134.1 million tons produced in 1966.

However, shipments were expected to be about 8 per cent lower than in 1968 when buyers stocked up on steel in the face of a threatened strike by the United Steelworkers Union.

The foreign squeeze in the specialty metals markets, increased labor and materials costs and higher taxes led industry observers to predict a drop in profits for 1969. "Like in all other industry," one industry source said, "it's generally believed profits will be lower than last year."

Government analysts said the prices of finished steel products rose 8.3 per cent between January of 1968 and September of 1969. For example, the composite price of carbon-based steel in September of 1969 was $186 compared with $172 a ton in January of 1968.

Higher wages and material costs were the main reasons given by U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's largest producer, when in late July it led the industry in a 4.8 per cent price hike on products accounting for 50 per cent of industry shipments. The giant steelmaker later backed down on smaller tonnage items but stuck to the price increase on flat-rolled steel used for automotive bodies and a variety of consumer products.

High strength, alloy steels went up in price toward the end of the year. The industry said it was trying to make up for the higher costs it was paying for nickel and other alloys. These steels are a small part of total industry production.

There were fewer steel workers in the industry in 1969 than the previous year but their cost went up. The 544,603 workers in the industry during the nine months of 1969 were earning an average of $5.59 an hour. The almost 570,000 workers in the industry during the same period in 1968 were earning an average of $4.68 an hour.

Industry sources say the 1968-1969 decrease in the number of workers is the result of an almost acute labor shortage. They say the Youngstown, Ohio, area mills have been particularly hard hit, but labor is also scarce in the Chicago, Buffalo and Detroit areas.

One of the major technological developments during 1969, which will have a dramatic impact on the industry throughout the 1970s, was the emergence of the continuous casting process being used by several companies.

The continuous casting process eliminates the need for pouring molten steel into molds, like ingots. Instead the molten steel goes into a caster and is rolled directly without cooling. Under the old method, the mold had to be cooled and reheated before sheets could be rolled.

Man Charged

In Murder Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — Charles Holloman was to appear in Hamilton County Municipal Court today on a second-degree murder charge in the shooting death Sunday of James Pitts.

Pitts, 20, of Cincinnati was fatally wounded on a sidewalk near a night spot in the Clifton Heights section.

Holloman, 21, also of Cincinnati told police that he and Pitts were arguing when someone stuck a gun in his hand and he hit Pitts with it. Then the weapon discharged, Holloman said.

Eugene Black, 40, was also to appear in court today. He is charged with first-degree manslaughter in the strangulation Saturday night of Arnettea James, 40, at her apartment here. Police said Mrs. James was Black's common-law wife.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has urged Roman Catholics to help those who live in slum conditions.

The pontiff, who made a Christmas visit to a Rome shantytown parish, told thousands in St. Peter's Square for his Sunday noon blessing:

"Reflect on the persistence, on the revival of these inhuman conditions in which so many poor people are living—men, women, children who are our brothers in Christ."

PITTSBURGH (AP) — While increased worldwide demand for steel pushed U.S. production higher than ever, foreign imports continued to plague the domestic steel industry during 1969.

Foreign producers were expected to stay within their self-imposed import quota of 14 mil-

But industry sources said the figure is deceptive since foreign steelmakers shifted strategy early in the year. They said foreign steelmakers stopped exporting basic, low-priced products and began flooding the American market with higher priced specialty steels, particularly stainless steels and alloys used in the automotive, aircraft, homebuilding and appliance industries.

Industry sources reported increased congressional support for import quota legislation during 1969, but doubted whether a bill could be passed before 1970 at the earliest.

U.S. mills began pouring out

steel at a record rate to cater to a world steel boom which erupted early in the year. In order to feed a steel-hungry Europe, domestic producers exported 2.1 million tons in the first eight months of 1969. That's about a 165 per cent increase over the 1.5 million tons exported during all of 1968.

Domestic steel production for the first nine months of the year was close to 105 million tons well above the record 103 million tons churned out during the first nine months of 1965. Industry observers said total production for the year would reach 137 million tons, which exceeded the all-time high of 134.1 million tons produced in 1966.

However, shipments were expected to be about 8 per cent lower than in 1968 when buyers

The foreign squeeze in the specialty metals markets, increased labor and material costs and higher taxes led industry observers to predict a drop in profits for 1969. "Like all other industry," one industry source said, "it's generally believed profits will be lower than last year."

Government analysts said that prices of finished steel products rose 8.3 per cent between January of 1968 and September 1969. For example, the composite price of carbon-based steel in September of 1969 was $172 compared with $172 a ton in January of 1968.

Higher wages and material costs were the main reasons given by U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's largest producer, when in late July it led the industry in a 4.8 per cent price hike on products accounting for 50 per cent of industry shipments. The giant steelmaker later backed down on smaller tonnage items but stuck to the price increase on flat-rolled steel used for automotive bodies and a variety of consumer products.

High strength, alloy steels went up in price toward the end of the year. The industry said it was trying to make up for the higher costs it was paying for nickel and other alloys. The steels are a small part of the industry production.

There were fewer steel workers in the industry in 1969 than the previous year but their output went up. The 544,603 workers in the industry during the nine months of 1969 were earning an average of $3.59 an hour. The most 570,000 workers in the industry during the same period in 1968 were earning an average of $4.68 an hour.

Industry sources say the 1969 decrease in the number of workers is the result of the most acute labor shortage. They say the Youngstown, Ohio, mills have been particularly hard hit, but labor is also scarce in the Chicago, Buffalo and Detroit areas.

One of the major technological developments during which will have a dramatic impact on the industry throughout the 1970s, was the emergence of the continuous casting process, which is now being used by several companies.

ess eliminate the need for ing molten steel into molds ingots. Instead the molten goes into a caster and is r directly without cooling. U the old method, the mold h be cooled and reheated b sheets could be rolled.

Man Charged In Murder Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — Chas Holloman was to appear in Hamilton County Municipal Court today on a second-degree murder charge in the shooting death of Sunday of James Pitts.

Pitts, 20, of Cincinnati, was fatally wounded on a sidewalk near a night spot in the C. Heights section.

Holloman, 21, also of Cincinnati told police that he and Pitts were arguing when someone stuck a gun in his hand and he hit Pitts with it. Then the man on discharged, Holloman said.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The television networks were busy over the weekend wrapping up some 1969 business and getting some projects started for the new year.

CBS' top newsmen gathered Friday night for an informal review of trends, moods and highlights of the passing decade. NBC had its gathering Sunday night with some of its staff men, mostly those based in Washington, assessing events of the recent past in terms of their future impact. Later in the evening, NBC broadcast another actuality program, "The Year of the Mayors," dealing with the crises in U.S. cities.

CBS on Saturday night broadcast the first segment of an interview last September with Lyndon B. Johnson. Earlier in the day NBC broadcast "Christopher Discovers America," the first of its "American Rainbow" series of special programs for children. CBS on Sunday night presented its first "Young People's Concert" of the season.

The annual year-end news wrap-ups are particularly interesting because, while slightly Olympian in tone, the correspondents present lucid ideas on where we have been and where we are going.

In form, the CBS program, with fewer personalities involved, was easier viewing and listening. NBC's 90-minute program was interrupted by the use of film clips and slowed by having each participant read a short, formal summary of his area of news coverage. The discussions, with give and take on subjects ranging from President Nixon's style to the mood of radical minorities were sharp and revealed much personal opinion.

The "White Paper" program on mayors undertook to interpret their hard times in 1969, relating them to problems in cities from Los Angeles and Cleveland to New York in terms of deepening racial and class division. It was a forthright summary of one aspect of a troubled situation.

The news in Walter Cronkite's three-month-old interview with former President Johnson was made public before the broadcast. The program, however, was highly rewarding: a close-up of the man the nation rarely saw when Lyndon Johnson made his formal presidential speeches. Here he spoke freely and spontaneously. He told of his feelings of inadequacy—"I always thought every job was too big for me"—of his friends and his wife.

The NBC Children's show, filmed on location, was a busy adventure story about a Korean orphan who reached this country by stowing away on a plane, then traveled all over in search of a new life with one of the American soldiers who had befriended him overseas.

Donny Hoffman was excellent as the little boy although some of the other actors were stiff and unconvincing. The hour lacked warmth, conviction and perception that was so evident in last week's CBS children's special.

On "The Young People's Concert," composer Aaron Copland talked about background music for films. The incisive commentary of Leonard Bernstein, who can make music sound like adventure, was missed. Copland, touching only lightly on the actual business of composing for films, spent most of his time explaining the plots of his films, then conducted the New York Philharmonic playing his scores. It was very pleasant music.

BOSTON (AP) — Hunger early in life dulls a child's potential mental development, a new study of black children finds.

By age three, he may well have fallen behind better nourished youngsters even if he had started out better equipped, says Dr. H. Jack Geiger of the Tufts University School of Medicine.

The remedy for this kind of waste of human talent is not just some patchwork supply of more food for the poor, Geiger told the American Association for the Advancement of Science Sunday.

Rather, he said, the answer also involves giving deprived children more challenging stimuli, such as toys and books, and in trying to overcome root causes of poverty through social change.

Geiger is professor of community health and social medicine at Tufts, and project director of the Tufts Delta Health Center at Mount Bavou, Miss. The center serves an area with some 16,000 persons in northern Bolivar County, 14,000 of whom are black and whose average income has been about $900 per family per year.

Geiger cited a study by Dr. Florence Halpern, a clinical psychologist, and Dr. Roy E. Brown, a pediatrician, at the center, who made detailed physical, nutritional and psychological examinations of 34 apparently healthy black infants, aged 3 months to 3 years.

Using the Gesell Development Scale, which measures various basic components of mental functioning to arrive at an equivalent intelligence quotient for such an early age, they said the youngsters had a developmental quotient of about 117 at 13 weeks or under.

This, they said, compared with about 100 as a national norm for white children. The black youngsters in this study may have scored higher than the norm because weaker ones had already died off, even at such early age, Geiger suggested.

But the scores of the black children declined with time until at 3 years old they average 86 compared with 100 for white children.

"If a child's mental development is heavily determined in the first years of life, what are we to say of homes without minimal food, without safe water, with roofs and walls open to the elements, without fuel, without clothing, homes in which children have never seen a ball, a rattle, a bell or a mirror?" Geiger asked.

Postage Stamps Irk Ogden Nash

NEW YORK (AP) — Ogden Nash, the American writer and humorist, has problems with the post office.

"Stamps still taste bad, but they won't stick," Nash wrote in a letter in today's editions of the New York Times in which he complained that he had to use cellulose tape to keep stamps from falling off his letters.

"I claim that the post office should supply a roll of Scotch tape with every 100 stamps, but mine won't even sell me one."

Atheist To Speak At Wittenberg

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — An atheist who has stirred much controversy in America the past decade, Madalyn Murray O'Hair, will speak Jan. 12 at Wittenberg University.

Mrs. O'Hair's efforts challenging what she called discrimination against atheists resulted in the 1963 U.S. Supreme Court decision banning mandatory prayers in public schools. Wittenberg, a Lutheran school, says it encourages "presentation of all points of view and claims of truth which presume to be knowledge . . ."

2 Children Die In House Fire

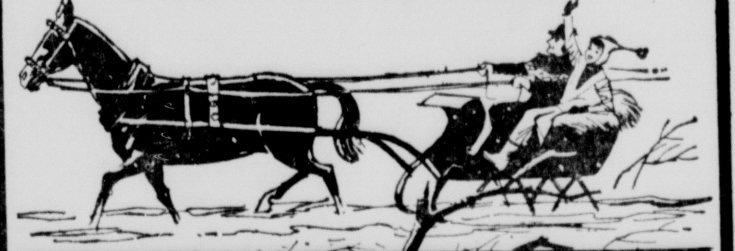

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A fire of undetermined origin destroyed a home in suburban Madison Township late Saturday night taking the lives of two children.

The bodies of Philip Dorn, 3, and his 13-year-old sister, Julie Marie, were found in upstairs bedrooms. The Montgomery County coroner said both died of smoke inhalation. Two other youngsters in the bedrooms escaped with injuries by jumping from the second-floor bedrooms.

The children's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Dorn, were downstairs where the fire started, in a furnace room. They escaped injury, as did a fifth child who was away from home. Fire officials estimated damage to the home at $20,000-$22,000.

Browns Massacre Dallas Cowboys, 38-14

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "Rubber band defense, huh?" The Cleveland Browns shouted the phrase in derision Sunday as they trudged up the ramp in the Cotton Bowl after thumping the Dallas Cowboys, 38-14, to win the Eastern Conference title in the National Football League.

Heavy Cage Schedule Coming Up

By HERSCHEL NISSESON
Today should be anything but Blue Monday for the nation's college basketball set.

No less than 17 of the Top Twenty teams in The Associated Press poll, including the first six, will be in action from coast to coast after a weekend in which 11 ranked teams hit the hardwood and nine came through unscathed.

Top-rated Kentucky, 7-0 after squeaking by 11th-ranked Notre Dame 102-100 Saturday night, entertains Miami of Ohio. The Wildcats shaded the Irish on Dan Issel's layup with 40 seconds—Issel scores 35 points and Mike Pratt 42—and were saved from overtime when ND's Austin Carr missed a jump shot at the buzzer.

Unbeaten runner-up UCLA made it six in a row by walloping Georgia Tech 121-90 behind Henry Bibby's 25 points and Sid Wicks' 22. The UCLAs face Princeton, an 82-76 winner over Indiana, in the finals of their own Bruin Classic.

The 3-4-5 teams—South Carolina, North Carolina and Ohio U.—were idle Saturday, but start tournament play today. The Gamecocks face New Mexico in the Sugar Bowl Classic at New Orleans, the Tar Heels go against Harvard in the Carolina Classic at Greensboro, N.C., and the Bobcats meet Texas in the Hurricane Classic at Miami, Fla.

Sixth-ranked Tennessee, which trounced St. Francis, Pa. 82-59, opposes Niagara in the

Browns defense is "like a rubber band that stretches but does not break."

The Browns jumped on the "rubber band" phrase as a battle cry for their rematch with the favored Cowboys. In big white letters on the blackboard in the Browns' locker room, it was printed for all to read: "Rubber band? How about steel bands?"

The steel bands held the Dallas club to 39 yards in the first half as Cleveland rolled up a 17-0 lead while Bill Nelsen picked apart the vaunted Cowboy defense.

At the end of a dreary, rainy afternoon some of the 69,321 Dallas fans were booing Craig Morton, their regular quarterback, and cheering Roger Staubach, his replacement, in a one-sided game that deteriorated into a duel between Staubach and Jerry Rhyme, an ex-Cowboy who backs up Nelsen at Cleveland.

"Can't you do anything right," a Cleveland player shouted to the confused Cowboys when Mike Clark missed the ball on an attempted onside kickoff in the final minutes.

"I could hear somebody on the sidelines hollering 'Cowboys get your bathing suit ready,'" said Nelsen, referring to the fact that Dallas now must play the Los Angeles Rams in the meaningless Playoff Bowl for runnerups Saturday at Miami.

If the Browns were concerned about their NFL title rematch Sunday with the Minnesota Vikings who annihilated them Nov. 9, 51-3, they didn't show it. Most of them had watched on television as the Vikings beat the Los Angeles Rams Saturday 23-20 in the snow-bound Minnesota. The winner of their game Sunday in Minnesota will go on to the Super Bowl Jan. 11 in New Orleans against the American Football League champion. "We got off bad last time," said Joe Kapp, 31, of Mexican-German descent, scarred from a barroom brawl, an import from Canada, has lived life with enough depth to develop a mental attitude which rejects defeat. That doesn't command the national attention. It does, however, provide leadership.

And Kapp's leadership was the catalyst for the Vikings' come-from-behind 23-20 victory over the Los Angeles Rams Saturday that sent them into the National Football League championship game next Sunday against the Cleveland Browns.

Kapp's leadership asserted itself in the fourth quarter after his own mistakes had enabled the Rams to build what seemed to be a commanding 20-14 lead in a game controlled on a frigid 21-degree day by the opposing defensive forces.

Los Angeles had taken a 17-7 halftime lead behind Gabriel, but Kapp's 41-yard pass to John Henderson was the key in a third quarter touchdown drive capped by Dave Osborn's one-yard smash that made it 17-14.

Then, later in the quarter, Kapp drove the Vikings toward the goal line again only to have Ed Meador intercept a pass on the four-yard line. On the ensuing series, Kapp again was intercepted, by Rich Petitbon on the Vikings' 36 and Bruce Gossett's field goal made it 20-14 in the fourth quarter.

But, remember, Kapp doesn't know defeat. "He stood on that sideline," said linebacker Wally Hilgenberg, "and he was yelling at the defense—'get me that seed, get me that seed.'"

That seed is the football with which Kapp can't throw a perfect spiral. But then Joe Kapp, according to the people who are supposed to know, can't do a lot of things with the football—except win.

When the Vikings got that seed back, Kapp was ready.

Frazier And Ellis To Sign Contract
NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Ellis and Joe Frazier were expected to officially agree today to a Feb. 16 match that will finally straighten out boxing's muddled heavyweight championship picture.

Madison Square Garden scheduled a noon press conference to announce the long-awaited match between Ellis, recognized as heavyweight champ by the World Boxing Association, and Frazier, who is accepted as the division ruler by seven states including New York.

Jerry Hendren of Idaho caught 95 passes for 1,452 yards in 1969. Both figures topped the nation's colлегues. He scored 12 touchdowns.

Orr Leads Boston 5-4 Over Phillies
By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's never happened before but Bobby Orr seems completely serious about becoming the first defenseman to win a National Hockey League scoring championship.

Orr picked up a goal and three more assists Sunday night, leading Boston to a 5-4 victory over travel-weary Philadelphia and increasing his point total for the season to 54. He is eight points in front of St. Louis' Phil Goyette, runner-up in the scoring race.

In other NHL action Sunday, Los Angeles tied New York 3-3 and Detroit dropped Oakland 5-3.

Kapp Leads Vikings To Win; Will Face Browns Sunday

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Joe Kapp, Minnesota's mighty Mexican, drives a 1939 black LaSalle sedan—and nothing may be more fitting.

ference festival at New York City. The lead changed hands 17 times in the first half but St. Joe mounted a 57-52 halftime lead and went on to win easily despite Jim Ard's 24 points for the Ohioans. The Bearcats face New York University in today's consolation game.

Kenyon suffered a pair of defeats—one by the weather Saturday and one by West Liberty State of West Virginia Sunday, 104-82.

The Lords were given a bye in Saturday's first round play of the American International College tournament at Springfield, Mass., after they were stranded by heavy snow on the New York Thruway west of Albany.

Kenyon's cagers spent a restless night trying to sleep on tables in a Thruway restaurant before pushing on to Massachusetts Saturday morning. The Lords' John Rinka, the nation's leading scorer, collected a game-high 33 points, more than 11 off his season average.

In non-tournament action Saturday Miami shaded Dayton 66-64. Seattle handed Toledo its first loss in seven starts, 76-68, and Ohio State breezed past Fresno State 84-77.

Tonight, fifth-ranked Ohio University heads for Miami, Fla., where it is favored to win the Hurricane Classic.

Capital and Bluffton go to Indiana for the Wabash Tournament and Denison will be at the Centre, Ky., tournament.

In Ohio, Cleveland State hosts Baldwin-Wallace, Central State, Central Michigan, Howard, Buffalo State, Federal City College and Westminster; Marietta and Wooster will appear in the Wooster Classic; Findlay will host the Findlay tournament; Muskingum and Otterbein will appear at the Otterbein tournament and Hiram, Wilmington, Heidelberg and Mount Union take the floor in the Mount Union tourney.

At Philadelphia, it was Villanova 89, Connecticut 71; Columbia 101, Wake Forest 78; La Salle 76, Georgia 66 and Cornell 68, Brigham Young 62.

Seventh-ranked New Mexico State, 10-1, captured its own Roadrunner Invitational 93-78 over Creighton and Jacksonville, rated 13th, won the Evansville Invitational by defeating the host team 100-74.

In other weekend action, Minnesota took the Motor City Classic with a 65-64 squeaker over Detroit; Canisius beat St. Peter's, N.J. 91-84 for the Queen City crown; North Carolina State won the Lafayette Classic from Northwestern 98-75 and Marquette crushed Wisconsin 64-63 to gain the championship of the Milwaukee Classic.

The nation's two leading scorers fell well below their averages Saturday. Pete Maravich made only seven of 27 shots and finished with 26 points as Louisiana State beat Submarine Forces, Pacific 88-80. Fortunately, the game does not count in the NCAA records. Calvin Murphy sat out 19 minutes in foul trouble but managed 27 as the Purple Eagles knocked off Rice 101-94 in overtime.

"We'll be all right next week. We believe the East is just as good as the West, and we want to make believers, just like the Jets and the Mets did."

"Last time the whole roof fell in," said Nelsen, the quarterback who made good on eight of 11 third-down situations and completed 18 of 27 for 219 yards and one touchdown with a slippery ball. "We've just got to go get them."

REVIEW OF THE YEAR—By Alan Maver-

100 Persons Meet Toledo Rockets

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—About 100 persons braved temperatures in the low teens here Sunday morning to welcome the University of Toledo football team back from its 56-33 Tangerine Bowl victory over Davidson.

Gov. James A. Rhodes, who accompanied the Rockets from Orlando, Fla., said, "this is a great bunch of boys. They have proved themselves to be great champions. During their brief stay in Orlando they distinguished themselves both on and off the field. All Ohio State can be justly proud of them."

Fresno State Falls To Ohio State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fresno State Coach Ed Gregory, who spent a lost weekend guiding his Bulldogs against Ohio University and Ohio State, wouldn't want to play either regularly for a basketball living.

Ohio State (6-1) whacked the Bulldogs 84-77 Saturday night after Ohio University (7-0) smacked them 92-78; Friday night.

Browns Massacre Dallas Cowboys, 38-14

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "Rubber band defense, huh?" The Cleveland Browns shouted the phrase in derision Sunday as they trudged up the ramp in the Cotton Bowl after thumping the Dallas Cowboys, 38-14, to win the Eastern Conference title in the National Football League.

Heavy Cage Schedule Coming Up

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Today should be anything but Blue Monday for the nation's college basketball set.
No less than 17 of the Top Twenty teams in The Associated Press poll, including the first six, will be in action from coast to coast after a weekend in which 11 ranked teams hit the hardwood and nine came through unscathed.
Top-rated Kentucky, 7-0 after squeaking by 11th-ranked Notre Dame 102-100 Saturday night, entertains Miami of Ohio. The Wildcats shaded the Irish on Dan Issel's layup with 40 seconds—Issel scores 35 points and Mike Pratt 42—and were saved from overtime when ND's Austin Carr missed a jump shot at the buzzer.

Browns defense is "like a rubber band that stretches but does not break."

The Browns jumped on the "rubber band" phrase as a battle cry for their rematch with the favored Cowboys. In big white letters on the blackboard in the Browns' locker room, it was printed for all to read: "Rubber band? How about steel bands?"

The steel bands held the Dallas club to 39 yards in the first half as Cleveland rolled up a 17-0 lead while Bill Nelsen picked apart the vaunted Cowboy defense.

At the end of a dreary, rainy afternoon some of the 69,321 Dallas fans were booing Craig Morton, their regular quarterback, and cheering Roger Staubach, his replacement, in a one-sided game that deteriorated into a duel between Staubach and Jerry Rhome, an ex-Cowboy who backs up Nelsen at Cleveland.

"Can't you do anything right," a Cleveland player shouted to the confused Cowboys when Mike Clark missed the ball on an attempted onside kickoff in the final minutes.

"I could hear somebody on the sidelines hollering 'Cowboys get your bathing suit ready,'" said Nelsen, referring to the fact that Dallas now must play the Los Angeles Rams in the meaningless Playoff Bowl for runarounds Saturday at Miami.

If the Browns were concerned about their NFL title rematch Sunday with the Minnesota Vikings who annihilated them Nov. 9, 51-3, they didn't show it. Most of them had watched on television as the Vikings beat the Los Angeles Rams Saturday 23-20 in snow-bound Minnesota. The winners of their game Sunday in Minnesota will go on to the Super Bowl Jan. 11 in New Orleans.

Ohio College Cage Squads Fare Poorly Over Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio College basketball teams fared poorly in tournament action over the weekend and will be looking for a change of luck tonight.

Some 20 Buckeye teams will appear in a dozen holiday cage invitational.

Ohio Northern posted the only successful mark of the weekend, whipping Manchester 123-62 Friday night and Kalamazoo 68-58 Saturday in the Marshall, Mich., Optimists Tournament. The Polar Bears meet Albion tonight for the championship.

Cincinnati fell 109-92 to St. Joseph, Pa., Saturday in the Eastern College Athletic Conference festival at New York City. The lead changed hands 17 times in the first half but St. Joe mounted a 57-52 halftime lead and went on to win easily despite Jim Ard's 24 points for the Ohioans. The Bearcats face New York University in today's consolation game.

Kenyon suffered a pair of defeats—one by the weather Saturday and one by West Liberty State of West Virginia Sunday, 104-82.

The Lords were given a bye in Saturday's first round play of the American International College tourney at Springfield, Mass., after they were stranded by heavy snow on the New York Thruway west of Albany.

Kenyon's cagers spent a restless night trying to sleep on tables in a Thruway restaurant before pushing on to Massachusetts Saturday morning. The Lords' John Rinka, the nation's leading scorer, collected a game-high 33 points, more than 11 off his season average.

In non-tournament action Saturday Miami shaded Dayton 66-64. Seattle handed Toledo its first loss in seven starts, 76-68, and Ohio State breezed past Fresno State 84-77.

Tonight, fifth-ranked Ohio University heads for Miami, Fla., where it is favored to win the Hurricane Classic.

Capital and Bluffton go to Indiana for the Wabash Tournament and Denison will be at the Centre, Ky., tournament.

In Ohio, Cleveland State hosts Baldwin-Wallace, Central State, Central Michigan, Howard, Buffalo State, Federal City College and Westminster; Marietta and Wooster will appear in the Wooster Classic; Findlay will host the Findlay tournament; Muskingum and Otterbein will appear at the Otterbein tournament and Hiram, Wilmington, Heidelberg and Mount Union take the floor in the Mount Union tourney.

At Philadelphia, it was Villanova 89, Connecticut 71; Columbia 101, Wake Forest 78; La Salle 76, Georgia 66 and Cornell 68, Brigham Young 62.

Seventh-ranked New Mexico State, 10-1, captured its own Roadrunner Invitational 93-78 over Creighton and Jacksonville, rated 13th, won the Evansville Invitational by defeating the host team 100-74.

In other weekend action, Minnesota took the Motor City Classic with a 65-64 squeaker over Detroit; Canisius beat St. Peter's, N.J. 91-84 for the Queen City crown; North Carolina State won the Lafayette Classic from Northwestern 98-75 and Marquette crushed Wisconsin 64-63 to gain the championship of the Milwaukee Classic.

The nation's two leading scorers fell well below their averages Saturday. Pete Maravich made only seven of 27 shots and finished with 26 points as Louisiana State beat Submarine Forces, Pacific 88-80. Fortunately, the game does not count in the NCAA records. Calvin Murphy sat out 19 minutes in foul trouble but managed 27 as the Purple Eagles knocked off Rice 101-94 in overtime.

Dennis Shaw, San Diego State quarterback, led the nation's collegiate football players in total offenses in 1969 with 3,186 yards and 45 touchdowns. He scored six TDs and passed for 39 others.

pery ball. "We've just got to go get them."

"Minnesota has a great team," said veteran corner back Erich Barnes. "We just hope it will come out the way we want it this time."

Eyes Of Nation Will Be On Texas In Cotton Bowl

By SHEILA MORAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The eyes of a football-watching nation will be on Texas Thursday, and one of the most "edge" sets should be that of President Nixon, the White House handicapper who publicly proclaimed the Longhorns the No. 1 college team.

Texas, unbeaten in 10 games, meets No. 9 Notre Dame, in the Cotton Bowl, No. 2 Penn State, also 10-0 faces No. 6 Missouri in the Orange Bowl a few hours later in an effort to prove the President knows more about politics than sports.

Nixon presented the Texas team with a championship plaque following its 15-14 nail-biter against Arkansas three weeks ago, and Penn State fans were a bit miffed.

The Associated Press pollsters ultimately sided with the President. A final poll will be taken after Thursday's games, which highlight the traditional bowl marathon in football's longest week.

The New Year's Day bowl spectacle features seven of the Top Ten teams, in nine hours of nationally televised games.

The Cotton Bowl (CBS 2 p.m. EST) marks Notre Dame's first post season appearance in 45 years. The Irish challenge the Southwest Conference champs with an 8-1-1 record and a 20-pound edge, man for man, on the front lines.

Should Notre Dame upset Texas and Penn State stumble against the strong Big Eight representative, the No. 1 spot will be wide open, with Missouri, USC, Michigan and Ohio State among the contenders.

Penn State, unbeaten in 29 straight games, and Missouri, 9-1, meet in a night contest (8 p.m. EST NBC).

The Sugar Bowl (1:30 p.m. ABC) pits third-ranked Arkansas against No. 13 Mississippi, 7-3, and two crack junior quarterbacks—Bill Montgomery of Arkansas and Archie Manning of Mississippi.

The oldest bowl of all—the Rose Bowl—features No. 5 Southern Cal as host for the fourth straight year (4:30 p.m. NBC). The Trojans, 8-1-1, face Michigan, 8-2, the only team to beat Ohio State this year.

In other games, the Peach Bowl in Atlanta Tuesday night matches South Carolina, 7-3, the Atlantic Coast Conference champion, and No. 19 West Virginia, 9-1. The Mountaineers' only loss was to Penn State.

Twelfth-ranked Auburn meets No. 18 Houston in the Bluebonnet Bowl at the Astrodome New Year's Eve, and a crowd of more than 50,000 is expected.

The teams match 8-2 records and both have averaged better than 35 points a game.

The American Bowl, featuring North-South seniors, wraps up the week next Saturday in Tampa, Fla.

OFFENSIVE SHOW IN COTTON BOWL—College football's top post-season game, the Cotton Bowl in Dallas, Tex., pitting the No. 1 team, Texas, against a good Notre Dame team, is expected to be a big offensive show. Texas, 10-0, has averaged 472.1 yards per game in offense and Notre Dame 448.9 yards per game. Heading the Texas attack are Steve Worster, the fullback, and Cotton Speyrer, star end. Linebacker Bob McKay is an All-American. The Irish are led by quarterback Joe Theismann, who threw for 1,531 yards and 13 TDs, back Andy Huff and linebacker Bob Olson, who made 142 tackles in the team's 8-1-1 season. It is Notre Dame's second Bowl appearance, the first in 45 years.

Knicks Rip Phoenix Suns

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Willis Reed will be hard-pressed to surpass his performance for the New York Knicks Sunday night against Phoenix. The Knicks won 135-116 and Reed won for them, with 20 points in the third period, 32 points overall, and 16 rebounds.

Reed also made all eight of his field goal attempts in that amazing third quarter, and his 20-point explosion led the Knicks to 45 points during those minutes, a record for the Phoenix Coliseum. Reed's 20 points also tied a Coliseum record held by San Diego's Elvin Hayes.

In other National Basketball Association games, Milwaukee beat Baltimore 133-124, the Los Angeles Lakers whipped Boston 109-99, and Philadelphia routed San Francisco 138-112.

Milwaukee beat Baltimore with Lew Alcindor's 35 points and a tight defense. The victory pulled Milwaukee to within one-half game of the second place Bullets in the Eastern Division. The Bullets dropped to seven games off the pace-setting Knicks.

"This is the way I should have been playing all year," said Alcindor, a three-time All-American at UCLA. The Bucks led 103-99 at the start of the fourth period, when Alcindor personally took charge at both ends of the court. With Alcindor in command, the Bucks outscored the visitors 17-6. Toward the end of the spurt, Alcindor smashed the Bullets on a 25-foot shot, then rammed a two-handed stuff shot that upped the score to 131-114, Milwaukee.

Logan Elm Dumps Southeastern In Holiday Tourney

Logan Elm won their second game of the Eastern Holiday Tournament Saturday night topping Southeastern, 71-61, for third place.

Winner of the tourney was the host Eastern Eagles squad who beat Logan Elm Friday night and topped the favored Western team Saturday.

Dan Fausnaugh again led the Braves to victory with 29 markers on 12 field goals and five free throws. Dale Hartley took second laurels with 20 counters while Jeff Jones netted ten charity shots and two field goals for 14.

Dan Ankrom had six points in the tilt and K.C. Jones had two to round out the Braves' offense.

Sports Chief To Propose NCAA Changes

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A small college athletic director in Ohio will make nine proposals to the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) next month for more uniform athletic policies for small and large colleges.

The proposals of Lysle Butler of Oberlin College would put more emphasis on local governing of rules by conferences rather than the NCAA, would attempt to cut down athletic costs and would attempt to return athletic programs to the educational context.

Butler, who has spent 50 years as a player, coach and athletic director and has served on several NCAA committees, will make his proposals at the NCAA's annual meeting Jan. 12-14 in Washington, D.C.

"The price of success is so great that we can no longer maintain our educational programs," Butler said in referring to the spiraling costs of recruiting, subsidizing and promoting football.

"Professional football is big business and in order to compete, the colleges have to be bigger business," he said.

Butler said the NCAA was attempting an impossibility in trying to legislate equality of competition for the 700 member schools, two-thirds of them in the small college division.

"The NCAA should start eliminating legislation aimed at promoting equality of competition and national championships," Butler said. "You can't legislate equality and the promotion of bigger and bigger spectacles merely adds fuel to the already rising costs."

Butler wants the NCAA and National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) to gradually give up their eligibility rules and adhere to the primary purpose of maintaining high standards of conduct in intercollegiate athletics.

The Detroit Tigers will open their exhibition baseball campaign against the Pittsburgh Pirates at Bradenton, Fla., on March 6. The following day the Tigers open their home schedule by facing the Minnesota Twins at Lakeland. Fifteen games are set for Lakeland.

Linebacker Mark Arneson made 41 unassisted tackles for Arizona's football team last season.

PRITCHARD'S players tallied 25 of 46 shots from the field for better than 50 per cent. The Braves also hit 21 of 36 shots from the charity stripe, a 58 per cent mark.

Prater led the Southeastern squad with 18 markers on nine field goals. Barbe and Skaggs hit for ten each.

SE netted 27 goals in the tilt and seven of 16 free throws.

At the end of the first period both teams had traded buckets and the tally stood at a 14-14 deadlock.

In the second period the shooting accuracy of the Braves and their strong defensive rebounding began to take its toll and the locals took a 12 point lead into the locker room with them at halftime, 38-26.

The last half of the game was a continuation of the second period with Logan Elm dominating the fray and never allowing SE within striking range. LE took the tilt, 71-61.

Logan Elm's next battle is with Zane Trace Friday on the Pioneer floor. They host Huntington Saturday.

In other games, the Peach Bowl in Atlanta Tuesday night matches South Carolina, 7-3, the Atlantic Coast Conference champion, and No. 19 West Virginia, 9-1. The Mountaineers' only loss was to Penn State.

Twelfth-ranked Auburn meets No. 18 Houston in the Bluebonnet Bowl at the Astrodome New Year's Eve, and a crowd of more than 50,000 is expected.

The teams match 8-2 records and both have averaged better than 35 points a game.

The American Bowl, featuring North-South seniors, wraps up the week next Saturday in Tampa, Fla.

OFFENSIVE SHOW IN COTTON BOWL—College football's top post-season game, the Cotton Bowl in Dallas, Tex., pitting the No. 1 team, Texas, against a good Notre Dame team, is expected to be a big offensive show. Texas, 10-0, has averaged 472.1 yards per game in offense and Notre Dame 448.9 yards per game. Heading the Texas attack are Steve Worster, the fullback, and Cotton Speyrer, star end. Line-man Bob McKay is an All-American. The Irish are led by quarterback Joe Theismann, who threw for 1,531 yards and 13 TDs, back Andy Huff and linebacker Bob Olson, who made 142 tackles in the team's 8-1-1 season. It is Notre Dame's second Bowl appearance, the first in 45 years.

Knicks Rip Phoenix Suns

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Willis Reed will be hard-pressed to surpass his performance for the New York Knicks Sunday night against Phoenix. The Knicks won 135-116 and Reed won for them, with 20 points in the third period, 32 points overall, and 16 rebounds.

Reed also made all eight of his field goal attempts in that amazing third quarter, and his 20-point explosion led the Knicks to 45 points during those minutes, a record for the Phoenix Coliseum. Reed's 20 points also tied a Coliseum record held by San Diego's Elvin Hayes.

In other National Basketball Association games, Milwaukee beat Baltimore 133-124, the Los Angeles Lakers whipped Boston 109-99, and Philadelphia routed San Francisco 138-112.

Milwaukee beat Baltimore with Lew Alcindor's 35 points and a tight defense. The victory pulled Milwaukee to within one-half game of the second place Bullets in the Eastern Division. The Bullets dropped to seven games off the pace-setting Knicks.

"This is the way I should have been playing all year," said Alcindor, a three-time All-American at UCLA. The Bucks led 103-99 at the start of the fourth period, when Alcindor personally took charge at both ends of the court. With Alcindor in command, the Bucks outscored the visitors 17-6. Toward the end of the spurt, Alcindor smashed the Bullets on a 25-foot shot, then rammed a two-handed stuff shot that upped the score to 131-114, Milwaukee.

Logan Elm Dumps Southeastern In Holiday Tourney

Logan Elm won their second game of the Eastern Holiday Tournament Saturday night, topping Southeastern, 71-61, for third place.

Winner of the tourney was the host Eastern Eagles squad who beat Logan Elm Friday night and topped the favored Western team Saturday.

Dan Fausnaugh again led the Braves to victory with 29 markers on 12 field goals and five free throws. Dale Hartley took second laurels with 20 counters while Jeff Jones netted ten charity shots and two field goals for 14.

Dan Ankrom had six points in the tilt and K.C. Jones had two to round out the Braves' offense.

Sports Chief To Propose NCAA Changes

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A small college athletic director in Ohio will make nine proposals to the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) next month for more uniform athletic policies for small and large colleges.

The proposals of Lysle Butler of Oberlin College would put more emphasis on local governing of rules by conferences rather than the NCAA, would attempt to cut down athletic costs and would attempt to return athletic programs to the educational context.

Butler, who has spent 50 years as a player, coach and athletic director and has served on several NCAA committees, will make his proposals at the NCAA's annual meeting Jan. 12-14 in Washington, D.C.

"The price of success is so great that we can no longer maintain our educational programs," Butler said in referring to the spiraling costs of recruiting, subsidizing and promoting football.

"Professional football is big business and in order to compete, the colleges have to be bigger business," he said.

Butler said the NCAA was attempting an impossibility in trying to legislate equality of competition for the 700 member schools, two-thirds of them in the small college division.

"The NCAA should start eliminating legislation aimed at promoting equality of competition and national championships," Butler said. "You can't legislate equality and the promotion of bigger and bigger spectacles merely adds fuel to the already rising costs."

Butler wants the NCAA and National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) to gradually give up their eligibility rules and adhere to the primary purpose of maintaining high standards of conduct in intercollegiate athletics.

The Detroit Tigers will open their exhibition baseball campaign against the Pittsburgh Pirates at Bradenton, Fla., on March 6. The following day the Tigers open their home schedule by facing the Minnesota Twins at Lakeland. Fifteen games are set for Lakeland.

Linebacker Mark Arneson made 41 unassisted tackles for Arizona's football team last season.

PRITCHARD'S players tallied 25 of 46 shots from the field for better than 50 per cent. The Braves also hit 21 of 36 shots from the charity stripe, a 58 per cent mark.

Prater led the Southeastern squad with 18 markers on nine field goals, Barbe and Skaggs hit for ten each.

SE netted 27 goals in the tilt and seven of 16 free throws.

At the end of the first period both teams had traded buckets and the tally stood at a 14-14 deadlock.

In the second period the shooting accuracy of the Braves and their strong defensive rebounding began to take its toll and the locals took a 12 point lead into the locker room with them at halftime, 38-26.

The last half of the game was a continuation of the second period with Logan Elm dominating the fray and never allowing SE within striking range. LE took the tilt, 71-61.

Logan Elm's next battle is with Zane Trace Friday on the Pioneer floor. They host Huntington Saturday.

Plane Makes Safe Landing At Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A commercial passenger plane made a wheels up landing on a bed of foam at Cleveland Hopkins International Airport Sunday.

The three passengers and two crewmen were not harmed and the passengers continued on their way to Detroit.

Airport officials said the only damage to the four-engine Wright Airline plane was bent propellers.

The pilot, Jerry McGuire, 38, of suburban Westlake, said he discovered the nose wheel was not dropping down as he prepared to land at a Detroit airport.

The plane was enroute to Detroit from Cleveland.

He said the Michigan airport told him to return to Cleveland Hopkins where better emergency landing equipment was available.

McGuire put the craft's main wheels down and touched down on the runway once in an effort to jar the nose wheel loose and into place. When this failed, the runway was sprayed with foam and he landed on the plane's belly.

2 Ohioans Held In Connection With Shooting

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Two 24-year-old Ohioans were to appear in Akron Municipal Court today on charges of shooting with intent to kill in connection with a shootout with police Sunday.

The shootout took place when police tried to arrest the men in connection with several Akron area tavern holdups, including one Saturday night in Cuyahoga Falls in which patrons were robbed and a waitress raped.

Detectives said they were running a routine investigation on the pair, Leonard Ray Carnicom of Toledo and William Edward Collins Jr. of Columbus, when they spotted them.

Police said they sealed off a city block and when they closed in on the pair in a garage, the two started shooting. After a brief shootout, the men were arrested.

Pittsburgh Loses Clash With Nets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
In the professional basketball ranks, it's not how you play the game, it's whether you win or lose.
So the Pittsburgh Pipers weren't wild about their 50 points in the fourth period and the Miami Floridians couldn't get ecstatic over Don Freeman's team record 48 points.

The New York Nets survived Pittsburgh's 50-34 final period and held off the Pipers 134-128 while Miami lost to Dallas 136-134 in overtime after Freeman and two other starters fouled out.
Elsewhere, Los Angeles beat Carolina 107-104 and Denver downed Kentucky 135-112.
The Nets, who broke a seven-game losing streak, raced to a 73-45 halftime lead over Pittsburgh before the Pipers caught fire and sliced the gap to a mere two points with a minute to go. But that was the closest they got.

Bill Melchioni paced the Nets with 32 while Stew Johnson had 31 and John Brisker 30 for the losers.

Mystery Ships Apparently On Their Way To Israel

Lawrence Reid Dead At 46

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The five mystery gunboats which slipped out of France Christmas morning were apparently moving through the eastern Mediterranean toward Israel today, almost within range of Egyptian planes.

Local Veteran Is Honored

U.S. Air Force Lieutenant Col. Gayle C. Wolf, son of Mrs. E. E. Wolf, 158 E. Mound St., received the Meritorious Service Medal during his retirement ceremony at Hamilton AFB, Calif., after more than 28 years military service.

Col. Wolf distinguished himself as director of plans and programming in the office of the deputy chief of staff for operations at Headquarters, Sixth Air Force Reserve Region, Hamilton. He was cited for his outstanding executive planning, management direction, and command and interservice coordination in the accomplishment of the mission.

The colonel, who holds an aeronautical rating of command pilot, was commissioned in 1942 through the aviation cadet program and served in the European - African - Middle Eastern Theater of Operations during World War II. A veteran of the Korean War, he served in the Berlin and Congo Crises and has completed a tour of duty in Vietnam.

Among his other decorations and awards, he holds the Bronze Star Medal, two awards of the Air Medal and the Air Force Commendation Medal.

THE colonel, a 1937 graduate of Circleville High School, attended Ohio State University, and is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha.

His wife, Ann, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Denman of 225 Northridge Road.

North Vietnamese troops surprised U.S. infantrymen in a night bivouac early Sunday 24 miles northwest of Saigon, and in 10 minutes seven Americans were killed. It was the worst American toll in a single action in six weeks, the U.S. Command said. Five other U.S. troops were wounded, and only three enemy were known dead.

Military spokesmen said the United States is closing out 1969 with about 35 per cent fewer American battlefield deaths than in 1968, the first downward trend in the nine years of American involvement in the Vietnam war.

The U.S. Command said that from Jan. 1 through Dec. 20, there were 9,279 Americans killed in action. The toll is expected to rise by fewer than 200 when reports for the rest of the year are in.

During 1968, the U.S. Command said, 14,592 Americans were killed in action, while in previous years the total was: 1967-9,378, 1966-5,008, 1965-1,369, 1964-17, 1963-78, 1962-31, 1961-11.

Despite the downward trend, the total number of Americans killed in action is only 71 short of the 40,000 mark, according to an unofficial tabulation based on incomplete reports.

While the total of American battlefield deaths dropped sharply this year, those of the South Vietnamese increased, from 15,426 in 1968 to 17,212 reported so far this year.

Reports from Sicily said a flurry of Israeli radio messages indicated an Israel flotilla had passed the island. Maritime sources said the intercepted messages gave no positive confirmation that the Israeli vessels were escorting the gunboats, but they indicated something unusual was going on.

Officials in the French port of Cherbourg, where the gunboats were built, estimated that with one refueling at sea, the 40 knot boats could reach the Israeli port of Haifa sometime today.

The 270-ton gunboats are 147 feet long.

British navy sources said three ships of the Soviet Mediterranean fleet were lying off Malta, close enough to sea lanes between Sicily and Israel to monitor any Israeli ship movements. Another 15 Russian warships were reported in Egyptian waters.

The Israeli government maintained silence on the gunboat incident, and a Defense Ministry spokesman said: "We never talk about this subject." The U.S. 6th Fleet and spokesmen in Naples for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization also refused to answer any questions about the gunboats, but it was assumed that the 6th Fleet was tracking them.

European diplomats had varying opinions on the likely impact of the vessels' arrival in Israel. French relations with Israel could hardly be worse so they are not likely to be much affected. Some diplomats thought there might be damage to France's campaign to woo the Arabs; others thought that because of the secret way the gunboats squeezed through the French embargo on arms sales to Israel, the Arabs would not make a fuss.

The French ambassador to Cairo notified Egyptian officials Sunday that France was launching a full inquiry into the gunboat affair. The French Embassy and Egyptian sources denied that President Gamal Abdel Nasser had protested to France.

The French Defense Ministry insisted over the weekend that the gunboats had been sold to a Norwegian company as unarmed transport boats for off-shore oil rigs. A film of the boats taken in Cherbourg, however, showed a cannon mounted on at least one.
